Pennsylvania Grange Names New Youth Ambassadors

NEW BLOOMFIELD (Perry Co.) — Being the runner-up in a contest like the Youth Ambassador pageant the first time is no big deal. Two times in as many years can make you think a little bit about whether you'll ever win. Three times, however, is more than enough to cast a shadow of doubt in your mind.

Chris Straub of Stony Point Grange #1694, Mercer County, knows how it feels. He was runner-up three straight years, but no more: Straub was named the 1995-96 Youth Ambassador along with Kris Haas, who was a runner-up with Straub last year.

"It's definitely a relief to get it (winning) over with," Straub, 19, said. "It was just a matter of waiting my turn on the totem pole. The three people who served ahead of me were just as qualified and as deserving to be ambassador."

Haas said she is glad to have been given the opportunity to serve the Grange as an ambassador.

"This is a great honor because now I can pay back the Grange for (Turn to Page A31)

Also, pictures and details about the Pennsylvania dairy princesses, alternates, and the upcoming pageant appear on page B12. Pictures and an article about New York and New Jersey princesses and alternates appear on page B14.

Heat, Humidity Stressful But Not Severe

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

The heat and humidity broke some records in central Pennsylvania as well as across the nation, but generally, there is little evidence that heat has been blamed for any severe agricultural production losses in the state.

According to a Harrisburg newspaper, York County suffered more than 20 thunderstorms in July. An article in the July 29 issue

Ag Progress Issue Next Week

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — The Penn State farm known as the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center is again preparing for the thousands of visitors expected to attend the annual Ag Progress Days scheduled for August 15 to 17. The center is located nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45. The theme of the program continues from last year: "Penn State Ag Sciences...We're More Than You Think!"

Next week Lancaster Farming will publish the annual Ag Progress Issue that features the schedule of events, messages from exhibitors, and features about the show. In addition, in this current issue, to help you plan your visit, see Page D5 for an early review of the daily schedule and a layout of the grounds.

Janine Wins Lebanon Swine Show Again

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — In the race to "two-peat" — to pick up a consecutive swine championship — Janine Winebark took the constant pointers and words of encouragement offered by her father, Ken.

She also borrowed "something my brother said," Janine remarked, and came up with the hog's name, Sherbert.

And it worked.

On Monday morning, Janine paraded Sherbert (with an "R"), her 262-pound Hampshire/Poland China gilt, to supreme champion market and overall champion swine at the Lebanon Fair.

Daughter of Ken and Janet Winebark, Myerstown, Janine picked up her second supreme championship in a row at the fair, which showcased a wealth of competition from the county. Janine, 11, worked against the odds — showing a gilt that was born with it's "right ear all crinkled up," said

Northeast and Midwest, and the balance of prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady to weak with increased cautiousness noted where offerings increased as demand decreased. Demand remained mixed, and was mostly fair. Supplies of jumbo were short to about adequate, extra-large were tight to adequate, large and medium were adequate to ample, and small were mixed but generally available. Breaking stock supplies were adequate to fully adequate for the light demand, and plants operated mixed schedules. Spent hen offerings were generally sufficient for the fair to good demand, and the undertone remained steady.

Performance Top Dress - LTD 22%

LTD 22% is a high performance Top Dress from Pennfield. It contains select sources of high quality blood meal and fish meal. Blood meal is an excellent by-pass source of the amino acid Lysine. Fish meal, an excellent source of by-pass protein, has also been shown to increase rumen bacterial protein synthesis - Rumen bugs work harder.

Combine these features with the steam crimped soybeans, steam flaked corn, balanced proteins and carbohydrates, plus vitamins and minerals and you have Pennfield's LTD Top Dress.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
AUGUST 2, 1995

Grain and soybean bids fell sharply, especially wheat, as bids plummeted on improved growing conditions in and active profit taking on the board. Wheat 22 to 30 cents lower. Corn 3 to 6 cents lower. Sorghum 7 to 8 cents lower. Soybeans 5 to 7 cents lower. Wheat traded limit down, today, as fund buying weighed heavily on bids. Favorable growing conditions in spring wheat areas and reports that crops are looking very good sent wheat bids sharply downward. Continued good export demand for wheat this week, however, limited declines. Corn and soybean bids fell sharply lower from spillover weakness in wheat pits. Beneficial rains and cooler temperatures this week in the Midwest and Corn Belt areas have corn and bean crops looking good. Forecasts for more of the same conditions over the next few days, added weakness to bids. Additional overseas sales underpinned corn prices.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA
AUGUST 1, 1995

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady. Demand was still light as buyers resisted higher prices, and many buyers had already purchased for the third quarter. Floor stocks were adequate. Shell egg offerings were also adequate, and breakers sometimes sold excess eggs into grading channels.

AUGUST 7-13, 1995

FULL STURGEON MOON, AUGUST 10.

THE ISINGLASS FISH

"Don't inhale your food," we're told — but sturgeon do. These primitive fish sport four barbels or feelers that hang down to help locate food, as well as an air float from which isinglass (for thickening jellies) is made. Sturgeons inhale crayfish, other small fish, snails, and larvae through their toothless mouths. Besides the common sturgeon of eastern North America, there are rock or lake sturgeon of the Great Lakes and Mississippi Valley, and the shovel-nosed sturgeon or hackleback, also of the Mississippi Valley.

The only time a fisherman tells the truth is when he calls another fisherman a liar.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Half a lemon in your refrigerator will absorb odors.

STUFFED FISH

- 1/3 cup butter
- 1/3 cup lemon juice
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1-1/3 cups cooked rice
- 1 16-ounce package frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 2 pounds fillet of sole

Mix butter, lemon juice, salt and pepper to make a sauce. Mix cooked rice, thawed broccoli, and shredded cheese with 1/3 of the sauce. Roll fillets around balls of the mixture, then pour remaining sauce over all. Bake at 375° F in a 9x12-inch covered baking dish for 25 minutes.

Makes 4 servings.

OPINION

A National Sales Tax

Farmers certainly are hit hard whenever real estate taxes get out of control. Some Lancaster County farmers got together last week in a barn meeting with state and local officials to air their concerns. These farmers say they are facing local real estate taxes of 16 to 30 percent of their net income—even including earned income off the farm in part-time jobs.

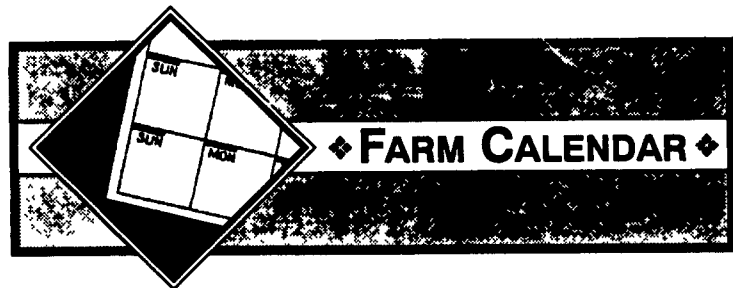

Despite the tax break for farmers, known as Clean and Green, the fees are too high to allow them to continue farming if these local taxes continue to escalate at the same rate the farmers have experienced in the last 10 years. Other methods of taxation are proposed, notably an income tax, so that those who don't own property but use the schools and police protection also help pay the bill.

But tax reform does not reduce taxes. It simply shifts taxes. And not all the shifts would benefit farmers. If you save money on real estate taxes, it may become income that would then also become taxable, maybe even putting some individual farms in a higher tax bracket.

From our point of view, the first priority in tax reform is to reform the needs of government. If we don't reduce government spending, we can't reduce taxes. Of course, this means reducing the handouts from government. It means cutting the size of government and reducing the multiple levels of government we now have. And yes, it would mean reducing farm programs although this would affect mid-West farmers more than in our area.

We think a national sales tax may have some merit. If you consume the service or product, you help pay the taxes. Farmers are large consumers, both in their farm operations and for their families. So they would still be paying their share of taxes. But so would everyone else.

And that's just what the farmers want. They accept the responsibility to pay their taxes. They just don't want to pay for more than their fair share, especially when they think they didn't create the need for this expanded government in the first place.

To Evaluate Clean and Green

September 1 is just a few weeks away. If you are planning to enroll a Lancaster County farm in Clean and Green, you need to have your application on file before September 1 for consideration for 1996 taxes.

Many farmers are waiting the results of their appeals before filling. This could be a mistake. Clean and Green only applies to land and not buildings. Clean and Green sets a price on farm land and woods based on its ability to produce a crop. These values are less than any market value that will be assigned. Thus, Clean and Green will reduce the amount of taxes you pay.

There is a concern a lot of farmers do not realize the size of their tax bill for 1996. For the average farm in Lancaster County, the local taxes (county, township and school district) will double. Clean and Green will reduce this impact.

If you have any questions, contact the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension office at (717) 394-6851.

Remember, September 1, 1995 is the deadline for applications for next year's taxes. The application must be in the Lancaster County Assessment Office, Courthouse, Lancaster, Pa. by that date.

To Look For Crop Deficiencies

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, reports seeing signs of nutrient deficiencies in fields he has been scouting the past several weeks. Potassium deficiency seems to be the most common. In corn, potassium deficiency will exhibit a yellowing of the lower leaves with a brown leaf margin which appears dead. The yellow area of the leaf will often appear to be yellow and green stripe.

Research has shown that potassium deficiency may be exaggerated under dry or compacted soil conditions. Some research also shows that the problem will occur more frequently in reduced tillage systems. There is no corrective treatment for the crop which is growing. Soil tests will help to identify low nutrient levels.

The best strategy is to accurately identify the problem and apply adequate fertilizer for the next crop. Now would be a good time to walk your fields and evaluate them for problems i.e. stand, insects, diseases, nutrient deficiencies, etc.

To Understand Heat Stress

The past several weeks of hot weather reminds us to be aware of heat stress in animals.

Every animal has a comfort zone. For milk producing cows, the comfort zone is 41 to 77 degrees F. At higher temperatures, cows start experiencing heat stress and the problems magnifies significantly with increasing humidity.

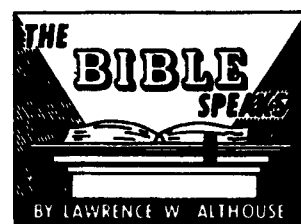

Several things contribute to increase body temperatures. These include heat generated by the cow's normal metabolic functions and additional activities such as walking and the digestion of fibrous feeds such as forages. Exposure to high environmental temperatures and to radiant heat emitted from the sun and other hot surfaces also increase body temperatures. Dark colored cows absorb about twice as much heat as light colored cows. Heat stress occurs when a cow is unable to dissipate excess body heat fast enough to prevent elevated body temperatures.

The primary way cows dissipate body heat is by evaporation. Examples are sweating, panting and sprinkling water on cows in the presence of a breeze. That is why blood flow to the skin is increased and why cows seek shade. Convection, or the movement of air, helps to break up warm air that envelops a cow's body.

Conduction is another method where heat is transferred to colder objects by direct conduct. That is why cows like to stand in water and lie in wet areas. During this hot weather, keep cows in cool places out of direct sun light, provide ample fresh cool water and keep air moving over your cows.

Background Scripture:

Isaiah 6:1

Devotional Reading:

Isaiah 55:6-11

If God were looking for an Isaiah to be his prophet today—and he probably is—for what kind of person would he be looking? How would he write a classified advertisement for this person?

WANTED—Someone to be a prophet in 1995. No experience necessary. Moral perfection not necessary. Only prerequisites...

Look at what happened when he called the first Isaiah to be his prophet. In Isaiah 6 nothing is said of Isaiah's qualifications. We don't know whether he was well educated, a charismatic personality, a good speaker, or influential in the circles of power. We don't know whether he was a particularly righteous man or even very spiritual.

Only three things are revealed about his qualifications. First, he was a man who was sensitive to the presence of God. "I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple" (6:1).

Tuned-In

My paternal grandmother could walk across a lawn and, without seeming to be looking for anything in particular, would suddenly stop, bend over and pick up a four-leaf clover. I could cross and recross that same lawn and never find one. I concluded that my grandmother was consciously or unconsciously tuned-in to four-leaf clovers. In much the same way, there are people who are tuned-in to the presence of God. They find him here and there, while the rest of us rush by unseeing and unhearing. I'm not sure these people are necessarily specially-gifted, but rather I believe they focus their attention on what is important. I believe all of us could be tuned-in to God, if we wanted to be. Isaiah was a man tuned-in to God.

Secondly, Isaiah was a repentant man. In the presence of the Holy God of Israel he felt keenly his sinful state; "Woe is me! For I am lost; for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts" (6:5). What God needed was not a righteous man, but a repentant one, for the message of his prophet was to be one of repentance.

Repentance doesn't require any particular gift, only a willingness to recognize that we have missed the mark, that in the presence of God we recognize, as did Isaiah, our unworthiness and desire forgiveness. All of us can and need to hear God say to us, "...your guilt is taken away and your sin forgiven" (6:7). In other words, all of us can meet that qualification, if we will.

Send Me!

Isaiah's third qualification was his willingness to go where and do what God wanted someone to do. When he heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" Isaiah, now freed of his guilt, spoke up: "Here I am! Send me" (6:8). This was a response of faith, for, although Isaiah did not feel qualified, he put his trust in God to supply him with whatever he needed in order to be his prophet. When we take up a task to which God calls us, our acceptance of that task is a mark of our trust in him. We trust that he will equip and empower us as needed.

Correspondingly, when we turn him down or fail even to respond to his call, it means that we do not trust him. We know we are inadequate and we answer on the basis of our inadequacy, not on the basis of God and His grace. It is as if we are saying, Lord, I don't trust you enough to take on this task.

Look at Isaiah, then, and ask whether you are not just as qualified to be God's servant as he was AND...just as obligated to respond to his call.

Dear Friends of the Clinic for Special Children.

We are again asking for your support and donations of saleable items to sell at the 4th Annual Benefit Auction on Sept. 16, 1995, at the Leola Produce Auction site on Brethren Church Rd., Leola, PA.

All proceeds will go to the Clinic for Special Children, a non-profit organization, with Dr. Holmes Morton as the attending physician. Dr. Morton has taken a special interest in several hereditary diseases. By testing all newborn babies of high-risk percent-age, he has been able to prevent irreversible brain damage of many of these young children. The same tests that are done at the clinic for $350 would cost $3500 to $4000 at major medical centers, making these tests too expensive for many parents. The costs of owning and operating this laboratory equipment are huge, but with the funds from this annual auction the clinic has been able to offer this service to their clients at a price that is affordable by the average parent.

You may contact any of the following for more information or, if you wish, deliver your donation to any of them. Thank you for your support.*

The Sales Committee

*NOTICE! If you wish to donate items that should be listed on our sale bill, such as Winross trucks, special quilts, or any other items, our advertising deadline is Wed., Aug. 9th. Please call or write to one of the following... thanks again for your past and future support!

Alicia Mase's Brown Swiss Supreme Champion At Lebanon

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — A senior 3-year-old Brown Swiss showed by Alicia Mase, daughter of Gary and Patty Mase, of Lebanon, on Tuesday was named supreme champion of all breeds in the 1995 Lebanon Area Fair youth dairy shows.

The youth dairy shows were held Tuesday morning in the large, airy show barn at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, along with the open division shows for the colored breeds of dairy cattle.

Because of the size of the dairy shows at the week-long Lebanon Fair, the youth and colored breed shows are held early in the week and then moved out to make room for incoming Holsteins for the Fair's open Holstein show.

That was to have been held Friday, after presstime, and early estimates were that, depending on the heat, entries should have recovered from last year's lower turnout caused mostly because of caution with regard to bovine virus diarrhea. (As was the case with almost every dairy show.)

Selection of a supreme champion dairy animal is the last event of the youth dairy shows at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Entries in the shows were relatively strong, and animals were complimented by judges for their

With one hand on her trophy, Alicia Mase holds the halter of her supreme champion dairy animal of the Lebanon Area Fair youth dairy shows, a Brown Swiss she owns and bred. Trophy sponsor Dale Maulfair helps Alicia hold the trophy while his wife Pattie holds their son David and stands with their older children Daryl and Jennifer. The show's promo-quality and appearance, even when some breed shows were dominated by one or two exhibitors.

The youth Holstein shows also were strong with more than 100 animals entered and minimal late withdrawals of entries.

Judge for the selection of tion royalty are Lil' Misses Elizabeth Smith and Faith Heagy standing in front, and, from the left, Lebanon Area Fair Queen Jennifer Bashore, her sister and Lebanon County Dairy Maid Andrea Bashore, Lebanon County Alternate Princess Stephanie Buck, and Lebanon Dairy Princess Kristi Schoffstall.

Lebanon County Lil' Miss Faith Heagy and Alternate Princess Stephanie Buck stand with Daryl Maulfair who shows his 4-H grand champion Ayrshire while Daryl's cousin Bradley Hoover helps out by leading Daryl's reserve grand champion.

supreme champion was Creedin Cornman, of Carlisle. He judged the youth Holstein shows. Judge for the colored breed shows, open and youth, was Bill Schnebly, of Clear Spring, Md.

The Mase family had reason to celebrate with two big wins. Not only did Alicia's cow win its 4-H breed grand championship and the overall supreme title, but her father Gary Mase showed the grand champion Brown Swiss of the open division competition.

Alicia's Meadow Hill Jade Alice-ET is a full sister to her father's open division grand champion of the breed, Meadow Hill Jade Alison-ET, also a senior 3-year-old. Their dam is Meadow Hill Titan Agatha and the sire is Bridge View Elegant Jade-ET.

Alicia's younger brother showed the 4-H reserve grand champion in the breed, a senior 2-year-old, Meadow-Hill Noren Dally.

It was the first supreme title for the Mase family, though they have had many champions over the years.

The Lebanon Area Fair is also unique in that it offers a type of total performance competition for the youth.

Called the best-bred and owned competition, contestants are scored on a point system that is based on the quality of the youth's owned and bred animal, showmanship, fitting, and the youth's project book.

For a second year, the winner was Allison Martin, of Lebanon, who couldn't be present for the showing of her animal in the event because she had to attend an evening college course at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster where she is pursuing a degree in education.

The competition actually rewards the first three place winners with savings bond awards provided by Lebanon Agway.

From the left, Jeff Hostetter, Andrew Ebersole, Jake Mase, and Kevin Sellers of the Annville FFA. The group placed second in the Lebanon Area Fair FFA chapter dairy herd competition to Northern Lebanon FFA. With the Annville School Board having decided to eliminate support for agriculture studies and FFA, this could very well be the end of the chapter for FFA at Annville, although agricultural residents in the district continue to protest the board decision.

The winners of the Lebanon Area Fair Best Bred and Owned dairy contest are, from the left, Amy Habecker, Timothy Vail, and Amanda Martin for sister Allison. Show royalty presenting awards include Lebanon Area Fair

Queen Jennifer Bashore, and the dairy princess contingent Stephanie Buck, Kristi Schoffstall, Andrea Bashore and Lil' Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Last year, Allison won the award and her younger sister Amanda won second place. Allison won with the same cow she showed to earn last year's title, Promise-Lane Melwood Audrey, now a senior 2-year-old.

This year, second place honors went to Amy Habecker, of Palmyra, while Timothy Vail, of Lebanon, was third.

Judge Creedin Cornman officiated over the placing of animals entered and commented on the competition. He said he always enjoys judging in Lebanon County, with its facilities and the supportive dairy community, and especially because of the efforts and behavior of the youth. "I'm not sure who started this competition, but it is a very good one."

He said he was honored to be part of an event that rewards the total efforts of youth in developing their ability to breed and raise high quality cattle and maintain highly organized and well-maintained records.

Photographs, notes, nutrition and vet records and treatments, as well as associated costs for feeding the animal, registration papers, DHIA records, and showing records are kept up by the youth in their project books.

Cornman noted that the competition is perhaps one of the few that truly acknowledges and rewards the type of responsible dairy cattle-raising behavior that leaders and educators attempt to impart on youth so that those youth can become successful and can later teach others.

In other honors of the 4-H and open Brown Swiss show, colored breed judge Schnebly selected senior 3-year-old Heilinger Simon Necessity, owned by Bruce Heilinger of Newmantown, as reserve open division grand champion.

Of the three senior 3-year-olds entered in the breed show, all captured grand or reserve grand honors.

Heilinger also showed the open division reserve junior champion, an unnamed homebred spring calf, a daughter of Victory Acres Jubilation Emory.

The junior champion in both the open and 4-H divisions was a winter calf, One-Hill Aytola Ivory, shown by Amy Moyer, of Womelsdorf.

Heilinger also captured the dam and daughter competition. The Mases won the dairy herd, produce of dam, and senior best three classes.

In the Ayrshire breed, Dale Maulfair received a surprise recognition of his 40th birthday (actually August 2) the same time he received the trophy for showing the senior and grand champion Ayrshire of the open division, his senior 2-year-old, Maulfair Acres Festival Glori.

Applause from the audience followed a birthday announcement by show announcer Harry Bachman.

The Maulfair family has been showing at the fair and has been active in Ayrshire breed events for a number of years.

udder.

In the Guernsey breed, Andrew Ebersole was the lone exhibitor and the judge praised the quality of his animals.

was named FFA senior and grand champion.

Ag Showcase Day Provides Education And Fun

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

FAIR HILL, Md. — For the 15th consecutive year, one of the major farm events at the Cecil County Fair was the Ag Showcase Day at Fair Hill Farm Tuesday.

Once again, farmers had the opportunity to see competing brands of equipment working side by side in the field.

"This is better than other field days or fairs where you only get to see the equipment on display," said Dave Wilson, Cecil County extension agent. "Here the equipment is working, and if you are interested, you can even drive the piece of machinery yourself."

A full schedule of events and educational demonstrations were held. Gary Cottman, John Deere Product Rep., spoke on Global Positioning Systems, and Dr. Wesley Musser, extension economist, University of Maryland, gave guidelines for selecting the proper size of equipment on your farm.

The manure spreader calibration demonstration showed farmers how to figure the rate of application with the equipment on their own farm. Hugh Salfner, Cecil County nutrient management agent, demonstrated with a sheet of plastic laid in the path of the spreading manure. You take two 10' x 10' square sheets of plastic at two different locations in the field. Weigh the manure caught on the sheets, and get the average number of pounds per sheet. Then take the number of pounds times 21.78 and divide by the square feet in the plastic sheet (100). This gives you the rate of application per acre.

"This is a very simple equation

To find the rate of application by your manure spreader, you first weigh the pounds spread on a 10' x 10' plastic sheet. Demonstrating are, from left, John Purdue, Hartford County nutrient management consultant; Dave Wilson, Cecil County agent; and Hugh Salfner, Cecil County nutrient management consultant.

to obtain a very important answer," Salfner said. "If you know the soil test, the nutrients in the manure, and the crop you want to grow, you can figure how much manure you need to apply."

Salfner also showed that often more than half the nutrients are lost if the manure is not incorporated into the soil immediately after application.

Some of the other demonstrations included: round bailers; TMR mixer, bale chopper; conservation tillage; compact tractor, and deer fencing.

Participating equipment dealers were listed as: Ag Industrial, Rising Sun; Biggs Inc., Rising Sun;

her brother, Brandon. She also faced tough competition in the same heavyweight class, up against the reserve overall hog shown by Trisha Berger.

Janine is in the 6th grade this year at Myerstown Elementary. Henry Holloway, Yorkshire breeder from Darlington, Md., said the hog was a real "meat wagon" when it won heavyweight championship. Holloway, who judged last year's show, said Hampshires provide a "high cutability" hog, and Janine's hog had "thick volume and a thick center."

The reserve championship, showing "lots of muscle volume," according to Holloway, went to Trisha Berger, 14, daughter of Bonnie Arnold and Greg Berger, Lebanon. Trisha showed her 270-pound Hampshire/Duroc cross gilt. She is in the 8th grade at Cedar Crest Middle School.

Landrace champion at the Lebanon Fair Swine Show was won by Trisha Berger, 14, Lebanon. Yorkshire champion at the Lebanon Fair was awarded to Jason Shirk, 13, Lebanon. Marc Arnold, Womelsdorf, 12, won champion Duroc at the Lebanon Fair. Also picking up Hampshire champion was Janine Winebark, Myerstown.

There were total of 90 hogs. Following is a list of show placings.

Heat, Humidity Stressful

of Lancaster Farming reported on some of the storm damage to agricultural producers in Franklin and Adams counties.

However, stories of heavy losses of poultry in Pennsylvania have been mostly unconfirmed or remained unconfirmable by presstime.

What has been confirmed is that there were some large heat related losses of birds, especially in the Midwest, according to Connie Bish, a U.S. Department of Agriculture AMS Poultry Market News poultry market reporter working out of Atlanta, Georgia.

Bish said an unofficial tally of losses, mostly compiled from conversations with field people, is that about 3.8 million layers died.

"That's a pretty large loss. Some people lost as much as 8 percent of their flock and they'd like to see less than a half percent (loss)," Bish said.

She said the heat that hit the Midwest and traveled to the East did cause some "very large abnormal mortality," but the heat also depressed the quality of the eggs produced, so the effect was compounded.

She said the combination of mortality and depressed production brought about spot shortages of eggs and an increase in price.

The wholesale price of eggs temporarily jumped to over a dollar per dozen jumbos following losses of layers in facilities in the Midwest.

Bish said Thursday afternoon that in her eight years as a reporter for the USDA, she has never seen such a dramatic price swing.

In one week — from July 14 to July 20 — the price of a dozen jumbos went from 85 cents per dozen on Monday to $1 per dozen by Thursday, according to weekly New York egg market Northeast quotes (reported weekly in Lancaster Farming).

From June 20 to July 6, the price was steady at 80 cents per dozen jumbos.

During the week from July 21 to July 27, jumbos started at $1.02 per dozen and ended at $1.06.

This week, egg prices have dropped again.

Using the same market quotes, the price of a dozen of jumbos stayed at $1.06 from Monday through Wednesday, but dropped to 98 cents per dozen on Thursday. (See page 4 for more egg price information).

Egg prices are controlled by a supply and demand system that is largely controlled through contracts with a small percentage of the industry conducting regular price negotiations.

While the hot season has just begun and no one can forecast what the price of eggs or any other quickly perishable agricultural commodity might do in the near future, Bish said the industry is recovering fairly quickly.

Bish said that Pennsylvania egg producers apparently did not suffer the losses as did egg producers in states including Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska and Illinois.

According to Bish, Pennsylvania producers actually enjoyed the benefit of a tighter national market to increase the price for eggs. She said that it can take up to six to eight months for a full recovery, and in the meantime, because the price was low prior to the heat mortality in the Midwest, she said she expects the price to stay above those pre-heat wave lows.

In the dairy industry, milk demand is normally down during the summer, and milk production is normally down.

Again, while there have been no documented cases of milk shortages, some area dairymen have said that they suffered losses of up to 20 pounds milk per day per animal on the heel of the mid-July heat wave.

Most dairy farmers report that the herds have almost recovered, despite continuing, but lower heat.

In recent years, many dairymen have instituted several techniques for cooling cows, mainly using the cooling properties of evaporation, protection from the sun, and tunnel or other forms of strong ventilation.

Ironically, Bish said that while the Midwest egg producers suffered significant losses (up to 8 percent of a flock with an estimated average of almost a 2 percent loss overall), those in the South have had little trouble dealing with the heat, leading some to conjecture that those in the Midwest are using structures which are designed more for keeping birds from freezing than overheating, while Southern facilities and techniques have evolved around combating high heat and humidity.

Dairy experts have been advising Northeast and Pennsylvania dairy farmers to abandon the historic dairy husbandry practice of building against the cold. For about 10 years the industry has been changing to buildings designed for ventilation and cooling properties.

Local extension agent John Schwartz said he knew that poultry mortality was up, but was not sure how much. The worst stretch that he was aware of was from July 14 through July 16.

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 5, 1995-A27

Even though daytime temperatures had risen in days before, evening and nighttime cooling prevented over-stressing of birds.

However, that particular weekend saw no respite from the heat. The temperature didn't drop below 90 degrees until 2 a.m. Sunday.

According to Schwartz, poultry (originally a warm climate bird) can tolerate periods of high heat, as long as a break comes. For an 18-hours period the temperature was more than 100 degrees, he said.

However, since the nature of the poultry industry is primarily contract production, and occasional and minor heat losses are not unknown, there has been no official reporting or documentation of significant losses, and that is probably because the losses aren't significant.

At the University of Pennsylvania Poultry lab at New Bolton, Dr. Bob Eckroade said he hasn't heard any confirmed reports of large losses in the state or in the Delmarva region, though he has heard conversational stories that there have been some large losses somewhere.

Others poultry officials in the Delmarva area also could not confirm any large losses due to heat and humidity.

In other production news, tobacco growers concerned about a disease called "blue mold" are too late to do anything about it.

In the June 17 issue of Lancaster Farming, John O. Yocum, a senior research assistant at the Penn State Research Station in Landisville reported the discovery of blue mold in a tobacco bed.

According to that report, the plants found to have been infected with the fungus were not treated with a commercial fungicide that uses the active ingredient metalaxyl. The fungicide is called Ridomil, and in his article, Yocum advised that if a plant bed had blue mold, "it should be destroyed since the spores are spread by air and will infect any untreated tobacco.

On Thursday, Yocum said that there really isn't anything that a tobacco grower can do now.

All blue mold discovered is believed to be caused by a failure to use adequate protective measures during seed bed preparation, at seeding and again at last cultivation.

Yocum said that there are a few cases in which growers did use the fungicide but still contracted blue mold in some plants.

In a comparison of tobacco grown at the research station which did not suffer any fungus infection, the cases of blue mold appearing in treated plants are similar in that they were planted early.

Yocum said it could be very likely that excessive rain diluted the fungicide or flushed it away from the plant in the earlier plantings.

The other possibility is that it could be a form of blue mold which is resistant to Ridomil, the fungicide approved for use.

Yocum said samples were being sent for laboratory identification, but that results wouldn't be known for 30 days.

If the blue mold would be the resistant strain, then producers could use another fungicide

Pa. Farm Bureau Urges Hot Spot Sing Up

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 5, 1995-A29

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is urging farmers suffering crop damage due to deer to sign up for this year's "hotspot" hunt before the Sept. 1 enrollment deadline.

Interested farmers should contact their Regional Game Commission Office to enroll.

The "hotspot" program, known officially as the Deer Damage Area Program, allows a hunter with an antlerless license for that county to take an antlerless deer on an enrolled farm during the regular buck season. Buck season is scheduled from Nov. 27 to Dec. 9 this year. Farmers in all counties except Philadelphia are eligible to participate in the program.

"Farmers should give special consideration to enrollment in the 'hotspot' program this year to be qualified for a proposed deer depredation program," said Joel Rotz, director of Local Affairs for Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "The Pennsylvania Game Commission is expected to give final approval to the program at its October meeting.

"The deer depredation program, which Pennsylvania Farm Bureau supports, is designed to help farmers who have tried the 'hotspot' program for at least two consecutive years without significantly reducing deer damage," explained Rotz. Under the program a special permit would be available to farmers to bring in licensed hunters to take deer during specified off-season time periods. "But first, you must have tried the 'hotspot' program," said Rotz.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau will have staff available at its exhibit during Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15 - 17, to answer questions about the "hotspot" program and the proposed deer depredation program.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's exhibit will be in a tent near the corner of Main Street and East Fifth Street in the exhibition area. Ag Progress Days is located nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45.

The PA Farm Bureau exhibit will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day of the show. Admission and parking at Ag Progress Days are free.

A listing of Game Commission regional offices with toll-free telephone numbers and counties served is as follows:

Kids Are Heart Of Fair

Animals, rides, the games of chance, the thrill of competition, the food all sticky, gooey, and loaded with sugar. Fairs were meant for children, young and old alike.

Imagine yourself as a pilot, operating the space shuttle as you glide in the air aboard the dive bomber. Petting the animals and imitating their sounds. This year there are tons of activities for the brave, the willing and eager to learn at the Biggest Little Fair in the State, Kutztown Fair Aug. 14-19.

The petting zoo offers an up-close and personal interaction with small farm animals. Touch and feel the goats, calves, ducks, piggies and more. Sponsored by the 4-H, this is an educational tent that allows hands-on training. It is an opportunity to ask the caretakers of these animals all about the animals.

Wednesday and Saturday are designated Children's Day. There are special ride discounts on these two days. In addition, on Wednesday the annual pedal power tractor pulls take center stage of the Livestock Ring. There is no charge for entering, and children ages 4 to 9 are eligible to compete in their respective age category for ribbons and prizes. Sign up to compete, by coming to the Livestock Ring at 7 p.m. that evening. A parent must be present to register their child. Following the pedal tractor pulls, the Berks County dairy farmers will be hosting the annual Giant Ice Cream Sundae. Free ice cream sundaes will be provided to all who attend, compliments of the Berks County dairy farmers and the Dairy Princess Committee of Berks County.

Friday evening is the Animal Mardi Gras. Here animal owners and their animals dress up and compete in a fun and festive parade of characters. Judged on creativity and originality, young animal exhibitors relax a bit and have fun dressing up in costume. See the Mardi Gras parade at the Livestock Ring on Friday, August 18, at 6:30 p.m.

Following the parade will be the dairy and livestock trophy presentations. Then at 8 p.m. is the annual bale pitch contest. Contestants will compete by age groups starting at 14 years old up through the senior citizens category. The top four winners in each category will win prize money. Again, there is no fee for entering the bale pitch contest. Minors must have a parent present to register them.

Admission is $1 and parking is $2.

Assessed as future development sites? Assessed value has nothing to do with the property owner's ability to pay taxes, and should have been done away with 30 years ago. It is now time for our farm organizations — Farm Bureau, Grange, NFO, and NFU — to get involved. They need to put pressure on our legislators and see that we get more than promises. I don't think much will come from taking tax assessment through the courts. We have Act 515 and Act 319 which are admissions that we are unfairly taxed, but do little to help, and put those who use them on a leash like a dog.

The farmers are not the only ones being hurt. The reassessment of the homes of senior citizens will make it impossible for many of them to pay the increased taxes. Our Chester County Commissioners have told the senior citizens not to worry by saying "We won't put you out of your home, we will take out a lien on your home." If they cannot pay the following year, will that mean another lien? Should they live another 29 years the county will own their home. Will the county pay, if they need to go to a nursing home? This is when the AARP should join in the fight by contacting our legislators to support the older citizens.

Some have suggested that we go to income taxes. In Chester County nearly half of our citizens work in Philadelphia or Wilmington where they already pay a wage tax and would pay nothing in the county. We must keep our taxes on property, but it will have to be limited to a percentage of our net income. For example, put a $10,000 tax on every property, then limit the tax to 3 %, 4 %, or 5 % of the owner's net income. This should take care of the farmer, the senior citizen, or, in fact, all citizens in the state.

It won't happen if we just sit here and complain. Call your farm organizations and your legislators. Demand action!

Ephrata Farmers Discuss Herd Health

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Ephrata Area Young Farmers monthly meeting was held on July 19 on the farm of Doris and John Zimmerman.

Dr. Walter K. Trumbauer spoke to the group on dairy herd health. His presentation was illustrated with the use of a bovine reproduction organ. Other phases of herd health management were presented.

A short session of questioning was held for the FFA members on the evening's discussion by Trumbauer. A correct answer was rewarded with the gift of a Winross truck to Kevin Stauffer.

In a short business session, John Zimmerman reminded all of the trip on August 9 to Greenspring Dairy and Hickory Farms near Baltimore. Jody Brown, ag instructor, told about House Bill #20, which will provide funds for ag education in all schools. Robert Fox reminded members of the annual Ice Cream Social on Aug. 19 at Woodcrest Retreat.

Deere Holds Local Dealer/Customer Forum

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Bernard L. Hardiek, president, Worldwide Agricultural Equipment Division, Deere & Company, Moline, Illinois, was in town for a special dealer/customer forum. These forums give the opportunity for top management to hear what farmers and dealers have to say from the top down.

A new 8200 John Deere tractor was brought to the hotel as a mascot for the dealer/customer forum. Supplying the tractor for display was the Landis Bros. dealership. Herb Noll, president is left, with Phil Wimer, manager of the Lebanon dealership.

"We like to visit with dealers and their customers to see what their plans are for the future and how we can improve the equipment to meet their needs," Hardiek said. "Sometimes we have customer focus groups where we zero in on a specific product. But this meeting is more general. Any part of the business, from products to trade in value, to finance, any aspect of our customer relationship."

Hardiek said 1994 was a good year for the ag equipment business and 1995 also looks good. He said their business is dependent on the weather just like the farmer. In the mid-West the crops don't look quite as good as around here, but they seem to be coming along well.

Back from a world trip, Hardiek said he is optimistic about agriculture, especially North American agriculture. Exports are in greater demand. China is increasing demand for food, and the trade disagreements with Japan have been settled. These countries are both good buyers of American farm products.

In addition to agricultural equipment, Deere & Company also produces industrial equipment and has a large lawn and grounds business.

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 5, 1995-A31

They also have health care, financial services, and an insurance business. But Hardiek said agriculture, which produces at least 50 percent of their business, is the part of the business that remains "our roots."

"We have long term relationships with our customers," Hardiek said. "And this is the most important asset we have even if it doesn't show up on the balance sheet for our stockholders. I continuously remind our engineers and marketing people about this."

"In addition, we have dealers that are third and fourth generation dealers with us. Our products last a long time, and our relationship with customers and dealers is an ongoing one. Not just the sale, but how does the equipment work, and how is our service after the sale."

There were four dealerships participating in this forum Tuesday evening: Enfield Equipment, Inc., at Oxford and Whiteford, Md.; ABC Groff, Inc., New Holland; Adamstown Equipment, Inc., Mohnton; and Landis Bros. Inc., at Lancaster and Lebanon. Each of the four dealers invited four customers to attend the forum.

New Youth Ambassadors

all that it has done for me," the 19-year-old Haas, said. "I enjoy meeting new people and I will strive to work hard in this new endeavor."

Haas, who is a member of Seipstown Grange #1657, Lehigh County and the daughter of Dennis and Kathy Haas, said she would work to: see a better working relationship between the youth and senior Grange members; increase youth sporting events at the local, county and state levels; and raise awareness about youth programs.

Straub, the son of Richard and Ginny Straub, said he would: learn all he can about youth programs to discuss them with others; work on increasing camp attendance; and make some significant contribution to the Youth Department.

Both ambassadors - who are currently in college - will have even busier schedules than normal, but said they can handle it as they travel the state to represent the youth program at Grange and non-Grange functions.

"It's one of those things that if you have love for it, then you'll make the time to do it," Straub said. "I'd rather do seven things and give them 100 percent of my ability than do 10 things and only give it 70 percent."

Some of their other duties include: traveling to Subordinate and Pomona meetings as requested; representing the Grange at the Farm Show and its annual dinner; and attending Leadership Academy and other state Grange-sponsored youth events.

First runner-ups were Traci Mattern, Big Knob Grange #2008, Beaver County, and Brian Ebersole, Community Grange #1767, Perry County. Other court members were: Lindsie Bennett and Ashley Campbell, both of Perry Valley Grange #1804, Perry County; and Amy Irion, Stony Point Grange #1604, Mercer County; Mike Tau, Hayfield Grange #800, Crawford County; and Leon Blatt, Virginville Grange #1832, Berks County.

The annual volleyball tournament was also held at Youth Camp, despite temperatures that soared into triple digits and searing humidity. The winners were: Male division: York County; Co-ed Division: Berks County; Sportsmanship Award: Perry County.

The Grange's Youth Department is for individuals ages 14-35. By participating in the Youth program, members learn public speaking and leadership skills and perform community service work. Youth members attend camp, getaway weekends and conferences geared toward learning, fun and fellowship. The Grange has 33,000 members and is the largest rural, agricultural and community service organization in the state.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within THREE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge. This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next three years.

Lancaster Holstein Families Gather For Annual Fun Day

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

KINZERS (Lancaster Co.) — "Farmers are important people," said Heather Oberholtzer, Lancaster County dairy princess. "They each feed more than 120 other people. And dairy farmers are especially important because they produce milk that has the unique distinction of being both a food and a beverage."

Heather was speaking to the Lancaster County Holstein Field Day held Thursday at the farm of Dale and Deb Hershey and family.

A judging contest was held in the morning with Bob Knutzen from Rising Sun, Md. as the official judge. Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County dairy extension agent and Horace Backus, Mexico, N.Y. were also on the afternoon program.

Shirk said the goal in this hot weather is to keep the cows at home comfortable. He said when working with a ventilation system in the dairy barn, air is a lot like water.

"Air like water must come out the other end," Shirk said. "Ideally the air comes in one end of the barn and flows through the length of the stable and is discharged at the other end. The breeze through the barn should be as fast as you can walk, about three miles per hour. A good number of 40 to 60 cow barns get two or three changes of air per minute with four 48-inch fans. To accomplish this, you need to have a 4' x 10' opening at the far end of the barn for each fan. And, like water, air is hard to turn (in a different direction) but if you place reflectors and openings at the proper place you can influence the air flow to go where you want it to go."

Shirk also recommended that cows in free stalls not be kept in the holding areas before milking any longer than necessary to make the cows more comfortable.

Backus didn't call his part on the program a speech because of his self-declared retirement from speech making after addressing the National Junior Holstein Convention in Pittsburgh in June. Horace has served the Holstein Industry for more than 40 years as a well-known reader of pedigrees at national sales and as a director of the National Holstein Association for the last eight years.

Therefore, on his way to the Virginia State Holstein Sale in Harrisonburg the next day, Backus answered questions from the group of local Holstein breeders.

He said the national association has set goals to make doing business with registered Holsteins as easy as possible. They have given breeders many different plans to register and classify their herds.

The group of dairy judges gather to hear Bob Knuttsen's official reasons Thursday at the Lancaster County Holstein Field Day.

Instead of their field persons spending most of their time selling heifers, they now spend most of their time helping farmers bring registrations up to date and help with other educational projects.

The reduced fees put in place to register over-age animals has been well received. To date, 18,000 over-age animals have been registered this year.

To help increase the value of pedigrees of cows that do not have high index numbers, Backus said the A-Plan (actual production and type) is being researched to recognize cows in this way. This new proposed plan to rate genetic transfer ability will be based on actual classification and production mostly on the lower side of the pedigree. Hopefully this can be developed to help both the cows that have index numbers and those that have actual records. This development on this new plan is expected to be completed in about a year.

But after you have such a plan, Backus said you need to convince the bull studs and buyers of embryos that they need to buy from this system also.

In the judging contest the top three winners in each class were:
Men: 1. John Kreider; 2. Roger Mills; 3. Lawrence Good.

Women: 1. Iva Lapp; 2. Evie Landis; 3. Lynette Eby.

Youth: 1. Galen Martin; 2. Trevor Ranck; 3. Delmar Oberholtzer.

Winebark Siblings Win Lead Line Competition

Lebanon Area Fair Queen Jennifer Bashore presents the girls' division first place award to Janine Winebark.

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The brother-sister team of Janine and Brandon Winebark, children of Kenneth and Janet Winebark, Myerstown, on Tuesday won their respective boy and girl divisions of the Lebanon Area Fair lead line competition.

The judges were Dorothy and Luke Brubaker. The contest is a wool promotion and display event. The participants wear and model outfits of wool while leading a sheep.

Designed somewhat as a fashion show, the contestants are judged on their abilities to attractively display the wool-produced articles of clothing and the ability to prepare an attractive outfit for modeling.

WHAT IS IN A FERTILE EGG?

Carol V. Gay, Ph.D.
Professor
Molecular And Cell
Biology And
Poultry Science

A fertile egg contains a life story that unfolds in just 21 days. In this short span of time, the fertilized ovum, floating on the surface of the yolk, divides into two cells, then four and on through many cell divisions to form an embryo with recognizable head, eyes, rudimentary backbone, and beating primitive heart cells by 33 hours. By day 21, a completely feathered, peeping chick emerges from the eggshell.

Many discoveries have been made by embryologists, the individuals who become fascinated by developing embryos. The orderly sequence of rapidly occurring events in embryogenesis provides a near-ideal experimental setting: the embryo is big enough to perform microsurgery on, it grows rapidly, is self-contained, and is quite inexpensive.

Recently, while attending a conference on skeletal development, I found myself looking at a slide which showed a chick embryo experiment described in a textbook from which I teach. At 2½ days of embryonic development, wings and legs begin to form as tiny swellings along the sides of the embryo. Appropriately, these structures are called limb buds. In a microscope, structure of the limb buds all look the same, but the cells comprising the buds contain genetic information (regions of reactive DNA) that will allow leg limb buds to become legs, not wings and, conversely, wing buds become wings, not legs. In the late fifties, one inquisitive embryologist decided to cut out a small cube of tissue that would become the thigh and place it at the tip of a wing bud. Would the transplanted tissue live? Would it become a misplaced thigh? Would it become wing? The result was a surprise. A toe formed! Thus, leg tissue had acquired the genetic information that instructed it to become leg tissue. However, when positioned at the tip of another limb bud, even a wing bud, a new set of positional signals instructed the grafted tissue to react according to its new position. This experiment suggested that the signals received by the grafted thigh-to-become-toe must be soluble molecules in the wing tip that diffused into the graft.

It is now known that one of the important soluble signals is retinoic acid, a derivative of vitamin A. Experiments have been done by

Supreme Champion's Milk Commands $675 Per Gallon At Auction

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent
TROY (Bradford Co.) — The price of milk hit the roof at the 1995 Troy Fair as youth auctioned off gallons and quarts of milk from the champion dairy animals shown at the annual youth show.

One gallon of milk from David Packard's supreme champion topped the sale at $675. Gray's Trucking of Rome purchased the decorated gallon container filled with the "white gold."

Pelton Trucking was the second top bidder as representatives entered the final bid of $400 for a quart of milk contributed by Jill Sheeley's reserve grand champion Holstein.

Pelton trucking was also the high volume buyer, having also purchased a basket of Bradford County products including cheese, meat, honey, maple syrup and other goodies for $200.

The third high price was bid by Judson's Incorporated for a quart of milk sold from Christine Eick's reserve grand champion Jersey. The feed and supply store contributed $390 in support of the program.

According to Bonnie Borek, co-chairman for the event, this was one of the best milk auctions ever. The average on milk sold from eight containers of milk and three baskets filled with Bradford County products was well over $280.

"I was very, very impressed with the cooperation of the kids and the buyers. Everyone's been wonderful. I'd like to give a special thanks to everyone who participated," said Borek.

The proceeds from the auction are divided between the 4-H or FFA member who sold the milk, the member's 4-H club or FFA chapter and the county organization.

Pa.DHIA Sets Fall Conference Dates

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The locations and dates of the technician's fall conferences have been confirmed.

Each year, Pa.DHIA holds three conferences — spring, summer and fall — to further update and educate each technician.

Fall conference is mandatory and allows time for each technician to interact and to exchange ideas with each other, as well as being able to interact with the guests who attend each meeting, such as extension agents and people working with artificial insemination.

There are a total of 14 conferences held at different locations. Each technician selects the appropriate conference closest to his or her area. This allows each group of technicians to be relatively small, which contributes to better interaction as well as being able to assist in keeping traveling time at a minimum for most technicians.

This year's conference promises to be as exciting as ever with the ability for each technician to give his or her dairymen Westfalia Dairy Plan reports on test day.

The conference agenda includes round table discussion facilitated by Dean Amick, director of field operations. This discussion is set up in a way that each technician has the opportunity to ask questions or voice any concerns.

Motivation and sales will be covered as a follow-up to the summer conference agenda.

The new nutrition program will be covered in depth. Our goal is to familiarize every technician with the finished product. Making sure each technician has the proper instruction as to how to understand this new program will bring out its fullest potential.

Fall conference allows time to give each technician a certification exam. This exam covers different areas of the responsibility of a Pa.DHIA technician.

This certification exam is given in compliance with National DHIA's quality certification specifications. Those specifications include that a DHIA technician must be tested at least once a year to measure his or her progress.

Fall conference is just one way that allows Pa.DHIA technicians to receive the proper education to complete their jobs in a competitive manner.

Please feel free to contact Pa.DHIA at (800) 344-8378 if we can assist with your dairy operation.

placing a tiny cube of sponge soaked in retinoic acid at the tip of the wing bud. This causes wing tip formation to occur prematurely and also causes extra digits to form. The leg limb bud reacts similarly.

These are just a few examples of how chick embryos have served to foster understanding of living processes. Embryos also provide a means for testing the effects external agents, such as pharmaceuticals and pesticides, may have on living systems. Another important use of embryonated eggs is vaccine production not only for poultry, but for other domestic species and for humans.

The pathogen-free egg is an ideal environment for producing pathogen-free vaccines. A relevant publication has recently become available: "Egg Uses and Processing Technologies," by J. S. Sim (University of Arizona Press, 1994).

Summertime Is 4-H Time

When you go to a fair during the summer and see 4-H'ers showing, fitting, and caring for their dairy animals, you get the feeling that the next generation that will be farmers or agri-business people will do just fine. 4-H dairy members learn numerous skills, but maybe more important, they learn responsibility.

Their animals are dependent on them for feed, water, and comfort. Their success in the show ring, particularly in fitting and showing competition, is directly related to the time they have spent caring for their calf or cow.

Now, young people do not learn the skills needed overnight, and their development must be guided by parents and volunteer leaders. One of the most satisfying rewards of working with 4-H'ers for over 25 years is watching little boys and girls develop into confident, responsible teenagers.

My own sons were wide-eyed and a little lost when they showed for the first time at age 9. By the time they were in their mid-teens, they were sure of themselves and winning championships for the type of their animals and their fitting and showing skills.

I remember a 4-H leader taking my oldest son, David, aside after his first showing experience and giving some showing pointers and a pep talk. The next day, he won his class and was reserve junior champion with a junior calf. Incidentally, that calf became a 3E cow with two Excellent offspring.

4-H can be a strong force in the positive development of youth. And, it is definitely more than showing cattle. 4-H is a year-round activity with members participating in a variety of projects.

As I write this column, five Chester County 4-H members are judging dairy cattle at Penn State Achievement Days. To prepare for this competition, they had five practices with their volunteer coaches within the county and spent two days in Bradford County at the Pennsylvania Holstein Junior Judging School.

During the year, 4-H'ers learn leadership skills by conducting club meetings. They have to keep detailed records on their project animals for feed consumed, health records, breeding and calving dates, and income and expenses.

These are skills needed to operate a successful farm or business. Club meetings can be trips to farms, vet clinics, etc., or speakers or videos on timely agricultural topics.

Let us not forget the word fun!

All you have to see is a water fight at the wash rack at the fair, and you know the kids are having fun. There are Halloween parties, hay rides, swim parties, and family picnics. Yes, 4-H is a family activity which is even more important in an era when family values are being questioned.

Today's youth have many opportunities to participate in activities in church, school, and sports. But 4-H is a complete program with a huge array of choices that help young people grow into responsible and productive citizens.

For more information, call Walter Wurster at (610) 696-3500 or the following 4-H club leaders:

Mildred Seeds, Chester Valley Dairy Club (Central Chester Co.), 610-269-0759.

Sharon Nolan, Manor Dairy Club (Southern Chester Co.), 610-469-3124.

James Wertz, Tri-Community Dairy Club (Northern Chester Co.), 610-933-4702.

However, producers using the more restricted fungicide can't apply it more than 30 days before harvest and most of the tobacco is expected to be harvested before any treatment could do anyone any good.

Also, once the tobacco plant has reached the topping stage, Yocum said that experience has shown that blue mold seems to stop spreading within the plant.

Christina Harper Reigns As Maryland Dairy Princess

KAREN BUTLER

Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — Christina Harper of Union Bridge is Maryland's newest dairy princess. She was crowned July 25 at the 34th Maryland Dairy Princess coronation held at the Holiday Inn in Frederick.

Christina is the daughter of Jean and Bill Coshun of Union Bridge, Carroll County. She assumes the title following the reign of outgoing State Princess Heidi Hauser.

Frederick County Dairy Princess Abigail Sowers is runner-up. Abby lives on a 900-acre diversified farm in Middletown, and is the daughter of Randy and Karen Sowers. She has one brother, Benjamin.

In total, four contestants from around the state participated in this year's festivities, charming the audience and judges alike, and delighting those in attendance with skits, radio spots, and songs about the virtues of "nature's most nearly perfect food." Other contestants included Julie Edwards, Eastern Shore Dairy Princess, and Brandi Schwinn, South Central Princess.

"These young ladies representing the dairy industry did such a dynamite job; it's refreshing to see such proactive thinking," said judge Bonnie Burr of the National Holstein Foundation in Brattleboro, Vt. "This ties in so well with the youth leadership coming up through the industry. You only need to hear one talk to know we'll be having some people that are proactive instead of reactive. After all the gloom and doom in the industry, it's refreshing to come out and see this."

Burr was one of three judges at the event faced with the formidable task of selecting the winner. Other judges were Lois Skeen of Mt. Sidney, Va., editor of South-Eastern Holstein News and a former MD 4-H'er who is now a 4-H dairy leader in Vt. and Charles Ruslavage, Clarion. Master of ceremonies was Jeff Myers of Westminster.

Susan G. Summers, chairperson of the Dairy Princess Committee, stressed, "We were thrilled with the quality of the girls this year. We chose one state princess, but all four will be working with us through the year."

The new princess lives on a 200-acre dairy with her family. They milk 50 grade Holsteins. Christina's responsibilities on the farm include calf care and helping with the milking. She is active in both 4-H and FFA, where she excels in dairy cattle judging. She exhibits her own registered Brown Swiss cows at the county and district levels.

When asked what sparked her interest in the breed, Christina replied, "The breed has so much untapped genetic potential. And," she confessed, "I just love 'em!" She has served as alternate dairy princess and alternate farm queen in Carroll County, and is a National Honor Society member and a student government representative at Francis Scott Key High School.

Several other awards were presented in conjunction with the pageant. Best scrapbook went to Shannon Harrison, Frederick County's 1994-95 Princess. Three incentive prizes were awarded to the 1994-1995 Princesses; they went to Shannon Harrison, Tanya Stambaugh of Carroll County, and to outgoing state Princess Heidi Hauser of Garrett County.

Brandi Schwinn was honored with best skit. Brandi had the entire audience participating in a sign language version of "Old MacDonald Had a Farm." Christina Harper won Miss Congeniality. Julie Edwards was awarded the Frances Keppler Memorial Scholarship.

Alternate Dairy Princesses recognized at the event were: Carroll County, Crystal Stambaugh and Erica Klein; Frederick County, Autumn Guyton; and South Central, Randi Branson-Gardner.

In addition to Susan G. Summers as chairperson, officers of the Maryland Dairy Princess Association, Inc. Committee consist of Brenda Nowell, vice chair and pageant chair; Mary Louise Wilcom, corresponding secretary and pageant vice chair; Jeff Myers, treasurer, and Gail Yeiser, recording secretary. Committee members include Carolyn Downey, Nancy Savage, Peggy Johnson, Sheila Miller, Betty Cole, Richard Arrington, Dawn Downey, Crystal Dell, Jesse Burall, Cindee Savage, Debbie Hoff, Rebecca Long, Patti Keppler, Terry Adkins, Lisa Palmatary, Stacey Kahler, Sylvia Keller, and Cindy Warner.

Christina said, "We may not be wealthy, but we fulfill our dreams as a family. Every day we try real hard to live on our farm with pride and honesty."

Clarion-Venango Dairy Industry Crowns Princess

PARKER (Clarion Co.)—Melanie Snyder of R.D. #1 Parker was recently crowned the 1995-1996 Clarion-Venango Dairy Princess. She is the daughter of Jack and Donna Snyder and a recent graduate of Allegheny-Clarion Valley High School.

Miss Snyder was crowned by outgoing Clarion-Venango Dairy Princess Tracy Wagner during activities at the Salem Community Complex in Lamartine.

KayDee Patterson, 1993-1994 Clarion-Venango Dairy Princess, was mistress of ceremonies for the event. She introduced the skits and speeches by both old and new princesses. She then introduced retiring Dairy Ambassadors Neil Wagner, Nicole Bell, and Karen Wagner. Before crowning the new princess she introduced returning Dairy Ambassadors who will be working with Miss Snyder. They will be Erin Hersman and Holly Deeter from Venango County and Caren Walls from Clarion County.

Melanie Snyder

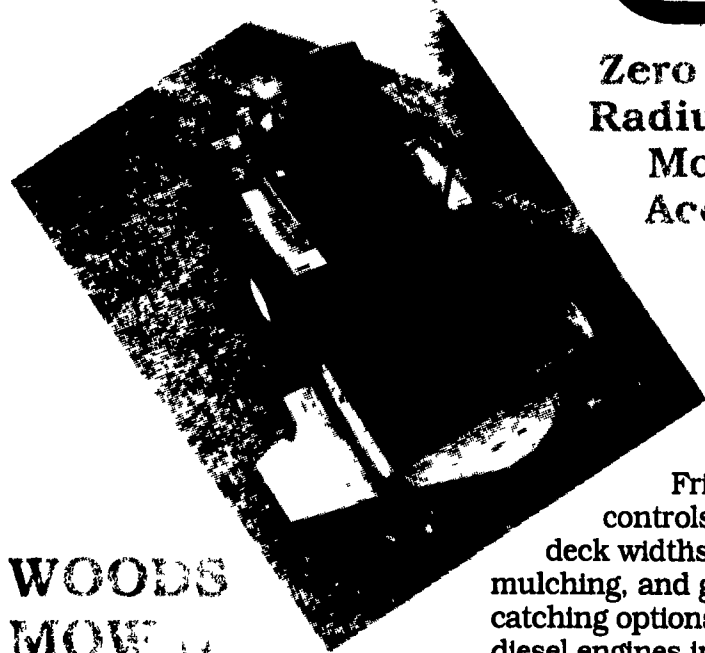

Tracy Wagner then gave her farewell speech and thanked all those who helped her through her

ORNAMENTAL USES OF HERBS IN THE LANDSCAPE

This is the first in a series of articles on growing herbs in the home garden.

Good cooks are lost without fresh summer herbs for flavoring and seasoning and as garnishes for foods. Today, herb gardeners are designing and blending herbs into a variety of garden settings including perennial borders, vegetable gardens, rock gardens, as pot plants and in urban landscapes.

Broadly defined, herbs are any plants that are useful to humans.

Traditionally, many herbs are used for culinary, medicinal, fragrant or other household purpose. Gardeners should not overlook the ornamental and aesthetic qualities of herbs.

Herbs offer a wide variety of foliage colors. Herbs vary from the blue green of rue, silver gray of lavender, bright green of parsley to the reddish purple of "Purple Ruffles" Basil."

Foliage texture also provides interesting contrast. Try the needle-like leaves of dill or the bold leaves of Angelica.

Some herbs have very decorative flowers, such as chive or lavender. Others possess attractive plant forms, for instance, the compact mound form of santolina. Though many "herbs" are herbaceous, sage, thyme, lavender and rosemary are woody plants.

Herbs are suitable plants to use in knot gardens. But, select your herbs carefully. In combination, santolinas and dwarf boxwood create a formal effect or combine wooly green with lacy shades of gray and blue for a rich but subtle effect.

Certain herb plants are particularly well suited to this function. Among them are Thymus, Artemisia, Santolina, Salvia, Alchemilla, Rosmarinus, Lavandula, and Stachys. A vertical accent herb like Angelica archangelica can be used almost like a sculpture in the garden.

Angelica can also be used in a pot or tub placed on the patio for its bold texture and exotic appearance.

Both Artemisia abrotanum, southernwood and Artemisia pontica, can be grown as a hedge. They spread rapidly by roots. The true lavender, Lavandula angustifolia is often used as an informal low hedge or edging for a rock garden path. The fragrant foliage remains attractive well in the winter for added interest. Cut flowers can be used in arrangement. Arctostachylos uva-ursi, bearberry Galiym odoratum, sweet woodruff and many of Thymus spp. will make excellent groundcover in the border, rock garden or for naturalizing.

Maryland 4-H Family Of The Year Finds Success

LOIS SZYMANSKI

Maryland Correspondent

Illona Hull says that she and her husband John, Jr. (Jay) had a 4-H plan for her children before they were even born! Mr. Hull had grown up in 4-H, and Mrs. Hull, (as a home economics teacher at a local high school), had been brought into the program when she was asked to judge at a Carroll County's 4-H Demonstration Day in 1972. She says she was amazed at the things 4-H children were accomplishing.

On the day Mrs. Hull went into labor with their first child, Heather, she was at an exhibition where her husband was judging cattle. After Heather's birth, Mr. Hull told his wife, "I think we've got our farm queen!"

Little did Jay Hull know about how his statement would come true, or how Heather would lead the younger children, Ginger and Lucas down that same path of success... through the 4-H program. Recently, the Hull family was presented with a plaque, naming them, "Maryland 4-H Family of The Year."

Over the years, Heather (who is now 20 years old) has served as Miss Carroll County 4-H in 1991, Carroll County Farm Queen and first runner-up for Maryland Farm Queen in 1992, Miss T.E.E.N. in 1993, and Miss Carroll County (currently). She has won the prestigious Presidential Tray award and gone to National 4-H Congress three times, once as an adult advisor. She says that 4-H has taught her the poise and confidence needed to speak before large groups of people, it has allowed her to experience many things, and it has brought her a close-knit circle of friends who share the same family values.

Ginger Hull, (now 18 years of age) has found her own path in 4-H, experiencing many of the same rewards as her sister along the way. She was Miss Carroll County 4-H in 1993. In 1993 she also won the Presidential Tray. She has attended National 4-H Congress several times, served as a National 4-H advisor and a Junior 4-H Leader. She says joining the county's NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK program helped her to learn to speak publicly.

The NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK program matches youngsters over age 14 with puppets, and it is a year-long commitment. Traveling together to schools and other public arenas, the young puppeteers put on shows with a goal of educating the public about disease and disabilities. "Well" puppets interact with "disabled" or "sick" puppets, encouraging audience participation and questions. Ginger says she overcame her fear of speaking while working as the puppeteer behind the puppet.

The youngest Hull family member is Lucas. Now age 13, Lucas explores life through 4-H in much the same way as his older sisters have done. Lucas has already completed his county's required 75 hours of community service through 4-H related activities. This year he will be showing a senior yearling heifer and a dry cow at county fair. He has also entered photography, sewing, rock-etry and other general exhibits. Lucas says he hopes to go to 4-H Congress one day, and to win scholarships for college through his 4-H achievements.

"The best thing about 4-H," says Lucas, "is that it has given me a lot of people to look up to... and a lot of good friends."

"Yes," Ginger smiles warmly in agreement. "All of my true friends are 4-H'ers!"

Carroll County Extension Agent Bob Shirley says the Hull family has been involved in 4-H a lot longer than most people realize. "Jay's dad, John, Sr. went to National 4-H Congress with 4-H when he was a boy, too!" Shirley recalls.

The Hulls live on a 103-acre farm that has been in the family for six generations. "The barn was built in 1865," says Mrs. Hull, "and the house was built in 1871." Today, they crop farm most of the land and keep a few head of Guernsey cattle. Heather is a junior at Maryland State University and serves as president of the University of Maryland 4-H. She majors in public relations and agriculture. Ginger is off to David Liscomb University in Nashville, Tennessee, where she will be a freshman. She hopes to become a fashion designer. Her love of fashions began with her membership in the Fashion Trends 4-H Club in Carroll County. Both girls are enrolled in college on scholarships, which makes their dad mighty happy! The whole family credits 4-H with their successes.

The most important thing on the Hull family agenda these days is preparing for the Carroll County 4-H Fair which will take place at the Carroll County Agricultural Center in Westminster, Maryland from July 31 through August 5.

"Four-H gives them an outlook where they are willing to try anything... to at least give it a chance!" says Illona Hull of her kids' foundation in 4-H. Then she adds, "Four-H is a good way to bring a family together, and to meet other families with the same values!"

Lucas, Ginger, and Heather Hull credit 4-H with the many successes they have achieved both within and without the 4-H program. The Hull family is Maryland's 4-H Family of the Year.

Best Picks For Canning And Pickling

Ready to relish the culinary delights of tasty pickled dishes, but not quite sure where to begin?

Here are some tips from Heinz, a leading maker of pickling vinegar, and Alltrista, the marketer of Ball brand home canning products.

Always select only top-quality fruits and vegetables. Pickling perfection begins and ends with the key ingredient — vinegar. Be sure to select only the highest quality, distilled white or cider vinegar of 5 percent acidity.

For best flavor and texture, pickle fruits and vegetables within 24 hours after picking from the garden. Pick above-ground plants early in the morning and root crops the evening before; this is when they're at their peak.

Avoid over-packing jars. Leave headspace. This allows for food expansion and the formation of a proper vacuum. Food forced between the sealing surface can break the seal and cause contamination.

Assemble jars, utensils, and cookware needed the evening before you plan to pickle:

- Brand-name canning jars
- Clean, rust-free screwbands, and new lids
- Cutting board and paring knives
- Measuring spoons and cups
- Colander or strainer
- Long-handled wooden spoons and rubber spatulas
- Ladle with lip and wide-mouth funnel
- Special canning jar lifter and lid wand
- Clean paper towels and pot holders
- Kitchen scales and timer
- Food processor, blender or grinder
- Large stoneware, glass or unchipped enamelware container (used for fermenting pickles)
- Aluminum or stainless-steel 6- to 10-inch quart saucepot
- Boiling water canner

Be creative when selecting what to pickle, but avoid adapting recipes on your own. There is a science to pickling and preserving, so be sure to use only recipes that have been developed and tested by sources you trust.

For helpful hints and blue-ribbon recipes, send for the free booklet, Best Picks for Canning & Pickling, P.O. Box 57, Pittsburgh, PA 15230.

Heinz

Featured Recipe

Canning and pickling homegrown food can save consumers 50 percent of buying commercially canned food according to the U.S. Dept. of Ag.

Plus, it tastes better. It's probably more nutritious because most people can and pickle within 24 hours after harvest, capturing all the vitamins and minerals.

If you go to all the labor involved in canning and pickling, you want to do it right. What is more frustrating than unsealed jars? Or, bland-tasting canned goods?

When it comes to preserving food, it is not a time to experiment or use less than the best ingredients.

There is a science to pickling and preserving food.

A great guide for successful pickling is available free from the Heinz and the Alltrista companies. The colorful 22-page book includes a collection of recipes and instructions for safe and simple processing.

Here is a recipe from the collection, which includes recipes for pickles, relishes, chutneys, salsas, and other fruits and relishes.

SPICED CANDY APPLE RINGS

5 pounds firm tart apples (2¼-inch diameter) peeled, cored
Vinegar-water (2 quarts water plus 2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar)

- 1 tablespoon whole cloves
- 1 tablespoons whole allspice
- 1 tablespoon ground nutmeg
- 4½ cups granulated sugar
- 2½ cups water
- ½ cup distilled white vinegar
- ¼ cup red hot cinnamon candies
- 1 lemon, sliced, seeded

Cut apples into ½-inch thick slices. Place in vinegar-water to prevent browning. Tie cloves, allspice and nutmeg in a spice bag or cheesecloth. In a 6 to 8-quart saucepot, combine sugar, water, vinegar, cinnamon candies, lemon, and spice bag. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer for 3 minutes, stirring until candy is dissolved. Drain apples and add to syrup. Simmer for 5 minutes, pushing apples into syrup to cook all surfaces. Immediately fill hot pint jars with apples, leaving ½-inch headspace.

Immediately pour hot syrup over apples, leaving ½-inch headspace. Carefully run a nonmetallic utensil down inside of jars to remove trapped air bubbles. Wipe jar tops and threads clean. Place hot lids on jars and screw bands on firmly. Process in boiling water canner for 10 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 pints.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards) Joyce Bupp

"Mom, what do you have that I can cook a gear in?"

A what?

"A gear. I need to heat a gear to 400 degrees so it expands and I can slip it on a shaft. Then when it cools, it will tighten up on the shaft."

Now I should have known that, shouldn't I have?

I suggested tucking the gear into a disposable foil baking container, putting it in the oven and turning the heat up to 400 degrees until the piece was properly and thoroughly hot.

"But it has to be in oil."

Oil? As in motor oil? In my oven?

"Yeah. The gear has to be kept in oil so it doesn't dry out."

And I should have known that, too.

With two generations of inventive, repair-talented farmers working around the farm shop, one never knows what they're up to when they come stirring around with such needs. In this case, it was motor work The Farmer II was tackling. And a helpful professional farm equipment mechanic had counseled him to "cook" the gear to get the snug fit necessary to make it all work properly once the pieces were put back together.

When it comes to making things work on the farm, wives have long learned to sacrifice their pride about housekeeping for the overall cause.

Our grandmothers talked of having kept baby chicks behind the cookstove to keep them warm during chilly spells of early spring. Most farm wives on livestock operations have, at some point in their farm-partner career, shared the shelter of their roof with a wet, chilled, abandoned, or premature piglet or lamb or calf or foal — whatever helpless animal baby they come lugging to your back or basement door.

So, anyway, what to cook this gear in? I mused that we could put oil in the pan in the oven holding the gear and seal it real tight with more foil. Smoke? Yeah, it would probably smoke the place up, even with the windows wide open.

"I could use my hotplate and heat it at the shop," he suggested as a far better location for this "cooking" project. A friend had given him a hotplate while he was at college. After some digging through temporarily stored, post-college remains, he lugged the hotplate into the kitchen. It still worked.

Meanwhile, I had unearthed from a basement shelf a small, ancient, iron skillet, which, except for some rusty spots and a quarter-inch of dust, was almost good as new. Fortunately, (though I sometimes wonder) both The Farmer and I were raised in families that believed in the "use it up, make do, improvise, keep it because you might have use for it later" philosophy of consumerism.

Some people might call us pack rats. We prefer thinking of it as "being prepared."

"But the gear has to be completely covered with oil," he pointed out. And, he demonstrated how the gear was almost thicker than the sides of the small iron skillet were high.

Now, I should have figured out that, too. Right?

Digging into a cupboard unearthed an old small, but deep, pock-marked-aluminum saucepan. He declared it ideal for the cause. And, unsure what the hotplate-cooking safety properties of motor oil might be, I offered a new container of vegetable oil from the kitchen for deep-frying the gear.

"Well, it worked," he cheerfully announced an hour or so later, returning the unused cup or so of the cooking oil to the kitchen. The gear had properly "fried," expanded, slid into place and tightened around the shaft — just the way it was expected to.

Next time I tell someone we never know what's cookin' around here, believe me, that's not just another meaningless phrase.

The Secret Is In The Sauce At Rib Cook-Off

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent
YORK (York Co.) — They'll tell you the "secret is in the sauce."

But they won't tell you what's in the sauce.

Sauces are the carefully-guarded secret weapon in the great ribs war, battled out locally last weekend at the York Fairgrounds. The event was the Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest, a benefit for the nonprofit Pennsylvania Livestock Association.

Fourteen contenders for the Rib Cookoff title — and a $2,000 cash grand prize — fired up their grills and cookers for the popular annual contest. Runner-up title earned a $1,000 award. A "People's Choice," with a $500 prize, was sponsored by Hatfield Quality Meats and selected by votes from fest-goers. Some "ribateurs" came from as close as a few blocks away in York, while others traveled from states as distant as Florida and Texas.

And a heated battle it was, with smoke and steam pouring off each contender's cooking facilities, while the sun blasted down with high-90s temperatures to accompany the steamy humidity. The thousands who attended selected their choices from the offerings sold at the competing booths, then headed for the shade of a large dining tent to enjoy the fare.

Music, crafts, demonstrations, racing pigs, a petting zoo and swine, sheep and beef youth shows rounded out the festival.

At specified, pre-scheduled times on Saturday afternoon, each of the 14 chefs by turns sent steaming samples of ribs and extra sauce to a panel of 10 taste-test judges. Among the taste panel members were home economists, food scientists, media representatives, and professional chefs, including Governor Ridge's resident chef.

Judges evaluated each entry for visual appearance and aroma, then scored them for texture, tenderness, sauce and overall flavor. Between samples, members of the judging panel could cleanse their

The Chain Saws For People Who Want To Act Like Lumberjacks, Not Work Like Them.

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years.

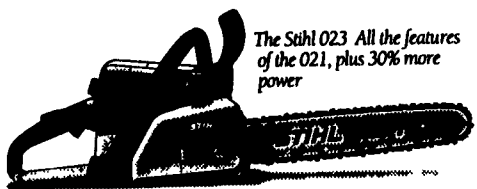

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis.

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind.

But don't confuse

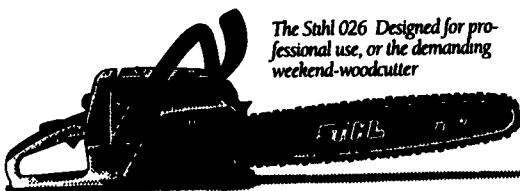

The Stihl 021 Superb power-to-weight ratio, isolated carburetor, electronic ignition.

The Stihl 023 All the features of the 021, plus 30% more power

The Stihl 025 More powerful than the 023, plus convenient side chain tensioner

The Stihl 026 Designed for professional use, or the demanding weekend-woodcutter them with discount-store chain saws.

All Stihl saws are designed for performance, ease of handling and starting, and durability.

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom: we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters. But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year.

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

For The Part Of You That Promised You'd Never Compromise.

Fairgoers Find Plenty To Do At Lebanon Area Fair

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Kids of all ages found a lot to do at the Lebanon Area Fair this week.

Seeing the animals, riding tractors, and eating ice cream top the list of favorite things for younger children to do at the fair. The teenagers prefer to visit with friends and compete in livestock shows.

Competition for the finest poultry, rabbits, horses, swine, sheep, and dairy and beef cattle was held daily. In between shows, fair goers could browse through the barns and admire the animals and birds on display.

Although this was the 39th year for the fair, there were some first-time events. The Northwind Circus delighted the crowds that gathered from July 29 to August 5. A five-room battle cruiser was set up on the grounds. People from ages 5 to 75 wore laser vests to enter the cruiser that had 125 mph winds blowing inside. Black lights and fog made it difficult to see inside until the trigger was pulled on the laser gun when a brilliant beam of light pierced the darkness. Points were accumulated for hitting targets, but if the person was hit, the laser gun would not shoot for five seconds.

The Petting Farm gave children the opportunity to hold and pet rabbits, goats, sheep and other small animals.

Although the fair officially closes on Friday night, people are invited to a Demolition Derby and fireworks display tonight. Rides and food will be available at the fairgrounds located two miles south of Route 72 on the corner of Cornwall and Evergreen Roads.

One-year-old Robert Myer III from Myerstown found delight in petting furry bunnies located in the Petting Farm.

The Struphar family from Cleona come to the fair for their favorite activities — eating ice cream and seeing the tractors. One-year-old Aaron proves that one is never too little to enjoy ice cream. His 4-year-old brother Matthew licks a cone while parents Sue and Corey take a more cultured approach to enjoying ice cream.

Popular at the Fair is this five-room battle cruiser with its 125 mph winds. Kids from 5 to 75 years of age wore laser vests and carried laser guns during their 5-minute stay in the cruiser. Black lights, heavy fog, and vicious winds made it difficult to see enemy targets.

B.J. Maurer helps feed the chickens his father entered in competition. The 9-year-old said that his father brought 20 to 30 birds to enter in competition. Many of the entries placed first. From the many exotic entries, Maurer said that his favorite is a white Rose Comb rooster. "I like how white and fat he looks," said the son of Ben and Sandy Maurer of Lebanon. In addition to feeding grain, Maurer said he gives each bird a piece of bread daily to round out their diet.

palates with French bread and a variety of cold beverages.

Entries were eliminated to seven finalists, who competed Sunday in a second-round judging runoff to select the winners.

Desperado's BBQ & Rib Co. of Independence, Ohio took top honors at the second annual Keystone National Rib Cook-off and Music Fest — presented by the Pennsylvania Livestock Association — beating out 13 other "ribateurs," who came from as far away as Texas and Florida for the competition.

The Pennsylvania Pork Council presented the $2,000 first-place prize, along with the title of "Best Ribs" to Lee Rice at the awards ceremony, held Sunday, July 30 at the York Fairgrounds.

Desperado's is a family restaurant, which opened in 1988 under the name of Roman Holiday, and is owned and operated by Lee and Donna Rice. The Rices have turned their vast culinary experiences (Lee's in the restaurant business and Donna's 18-year career as a home economics teacher in the Cleveland public schools), into a successful family-operated business.

Their children Cheri, Pam Leslie, Doug and Kristen have all worked at Desperado's, which has garnered more than 20 national cook-off awards.

Whistler's Inn of Cinnaminson, N.J. received the second-place prize of $1,000, also presented by the Pennsylvania Pork Council.

A panel of 10 area culinary experts, including the resident chef of Governor Ridge's residence, judged the ribs according to visual appeal, texture, tenderness, consistency and overall flavor.

Thousands of rib lovers from central Pennsylvania attended the four-day event and they all had an opportunity to cast their votes for the "People's Choice Award," sponsored by Hatfield Quality Meats. Cowboys BBQ & Rib Co. of Fort Worth, TX took home the honor and received $500 and a trophy.

New Class Of Royalty Trains

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services welcomed the 1995-96 "class" of county dairy princesses and alternates to its annual training seminar at Lycoming College, Williamsport. Thirty-five Pennsylvania princesses, 19 alternates, and more than 30 adult committee persons and mothers were joined by four princesses from Maryland for an intensive 3½ days of training for their new role as dairy promoters.

Workshops and lectures covering all aspects of the dairy industry, nutrition, media relations, public speaking, promotion techniques, and personal appearance and social conduct were led by 23 speakers. They were assisted by Pennsylvania's reigning State Princess, Natalie Welch and Alternates, Rachel Tanis and Melissa Bicksler and the P.D.P.S. coordinators and program director.

Starting with the keynote address by Deborah Miller Brubaker, former Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, the young women were encouraged to develop and use their knowledge, personalities and individual abilities to represent and promote the dairy industry and its products and agriculture as a way of life. In addition to the sessions on dairy royalty, special sessions on dairy promotion were conducted for the adult participants.

All of the young women in attendance assisted by their local dairy promotion committees and their families will spend the coming year representing the dairy industry and promoting the use of its products. They will visit school classrooms, conduct demonstrations in grocery stores and malls, speak at meetings of farmers and non-farm audiences, write news articles and participate in radio and T.V. interviews. They will also be found occasionally riding in parades and handing out awards at county fairs. It will be a busy but rewarding year for all as they do their part to contribute to the well being of the dairy industry and the health of its customers.

In September, the 35 Pennsylvania county princesses will compete for the title of Pennsylvania Dairy Princess or Alternates. The State Pageant will be held at the Sheraton Inn, Harrisburg, on Saturday evening, September 23. All interested persons are urged to attend and support their local candidate.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program, now in its 39th year, is supported by Pennsylvania dairy farmers through American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Mid East, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and Allied Milk Producers in addition to contributions from independent dairies, cooperatives, and individuals.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess alternates are Jamie Woodburn, Warren; Melissa Dengler, Crawford; Tia Crider, Franklin; Ellen Keeney, Bradford. Second row, Roberta Fogleman, Lycoming; Lauren Lynch, Somerset; Stephanie Buck, Lebanon; Melissa Bicksler, Pa. Alternate Dairy Princess; Rachel Tanis, Pa. Alternate Dairy Princess; Bridget Gearhart, Mifflin; Joy Hess, Adams; and Andrea Kreider, Lancaster. Young Adults Train To Represent, Promote Dairy

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. — Informative workshops, new friends, and fun were all a part of the Dairy Promotion Training Seminar held July 5-7 at Morrisville College. Organized and sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., (ADADC), the seminar prepared 100 participants throughout New York state and New Jersey for an upcoming year of representing the dairy industry and promoting its products.

Stephanie Meyers, ADADC Producer Communications Specialist and coordinator of the seminar, was impressed with the enthusiasm reflected by the new spokespersons for the dairy industry. "The dairy industry has a great group of promoters this year. Their enthusiasm, coupled with the knowledge they gained at the seminar, is sure to sell lots of dairy products," she stated.

Leading the enthusiasm were New York State Dairy Princess, Jonelle Smith of Cincinnatus and New York State Alternate Dairy Princesses, Tricia Hopkins of Fillmore and Anita Lant from Horseheads. These three role models assisted in the planning process and carried out several activities. To emphasize the importance of team work in dairy promotion, Hopkins and Lant held a workshop entitled "Alternates are Important Too!"

Rick Naczi, ADADC Chief Executive Officer, addressed the participants to illustrate ADADC's importance in the marketplace. Highlighting several of ADADC's effective promotional programs, Naczi also spoke of the princesses' local efforts as complements to the Association's mission statement. Many participants enjoyed the opportunity to understand their role in the overall promotional picture.

Effective communication skills are essential for promoters to interact positively with the public. In order to sharpen these skills, dairy princesses, and alternates attended workshops on effective speaking, radio public service announcements, news articles and media training.

Brenda Beltram, ADADC Communications Director, conducted the workshops dealing with controversial media questions and public speaking. "It's important for county promoters to be able to respond to tough questions from the media, consumers, and especially animal rights activists," she says. "By reviewing questions and professionalizing responses on video, the workshops provided the training necessary to handle on-the-spot questions and general speaking with confidence."

Since youth is a primary target audience, each county dairy princess creates a school program geared toward elementary students for presentations throughout the year. Princesses' school programs were critiqued by experienced dairy promoters based on content and delivery at the seminar. To make a lasting impression, Jonelle Smith, an evaluator, stressed the importance of generating excitement among children. Molly Zorn, Tioga County Dairy Princess of Owego, appreciated the chance to see other ideas and converged them to improve her own presentation.

Accomplishments of the seminar include gaining skills, knowledge, and confidence for spreading the word about dairy products in home counties. "I feel I have more information available to me for answering nutritional questions," Wendy Zylstra, Orange County Dairy Princess from Montgomery, said, "I'm ready to go!"

"The New Jersey princesses enjoyed the opportunity to be a part of ADADC's great program," Kelly Stanfa, Cumberland County Dairy Princess of Bridgeton, N.J. said. "I learned a lot more about dairy promotion at the seminar than I could in the milking parlor!"

Kirsten Rowe, Chenango County Dairy Princess of Earlville is a first year promoter. Having had a lot of questions answered at the seminar, she now feels more prepared for promoting dairy products.

Equipped for a successful year of dairy promotion, dairy princesses and alternates will further develop their skills through school presentations, newspaper articles, radio public service announcements and special events. These experiences will prepare them for the 35th Annual New York State Dairy Princess Pageant scheduled for Tuesday, February 20 at the Sheraton Inn in Liverpool, N.Y.

Third Generation Hampshire Breeder Takes Supreme Title At Lebanon Fair

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) —

Kyle Fleener carried on a family tradition at the Lebanon Fair Breeding Sheep Show on Monday evening. His ability to clinch the supreme champion title with his Hampshire ewe makes him the third generation to show the champion breed.

Kyle is the 11-year-old son of Tim and Sarah Fleener and the grandson of Clyde and Dorothy Brubaker. The Fleeners and Brubakers are long-time sheep breeders at their Newmanstown farm that straddles both Lebanon and Berks counties.

Hampshires have always been the family's main emphasis. But when Kyle was first old enough to show competitively, he chose the Southdown breed because they are smaller and easier to handle. This year, Kyle considered himself strong enough to handle the hefty Hampshire breed and picked two of the family's Hampshires to add to his show repertoire.

His first time to show the supreme champion Hampshire was at the American Junior Show in Indiana, where the ewe placed eighth out of 25.

Kyle cut a deal with his parents: If he were able to do a good job of showing in Indiana, he would be able to show it at his county fair.

Although Kyle was thrilled to win the supreme champion title with a Hampshire, he was non-committal when it came to voicing his preference between it and the Southdown breed in which he also swept all the first place categories in that breed.

In the final showdown among all champion breeds, judge John Conaway said the toughest challenge was choosing from Kyle's champion Hamp and Southdown, and the Corriedale shown by Ben Bow.

Conaway said that in his opinion, a champion must have length of body with an extensive front end and have a long-bodied carcass, be complete, functional, big, sound, and correct. Conaway said that while several of the breeds showed those characteristics, he selected the Hampshire because when it's on the move, it has fluid strides and is typey in appearance.

In addition to Kyle sweeping the champion Hampshire and the champion and reserve Southdown entries, Ann Leed took the reserve in the Hampshire class.

The top winners in the other breeds included both champion and reserve Corriedales shown by Ben Bow; champion and reserve Dorsets shown by Ann Leed; champion and reserve Montadales owned by Tisha Ebling; and the Suffolk breed owned by Jamie Brown.

Showing sheep has been a family tradition for this family for three generations. Kyle Fleener, holding the supreme champion sheep, is the son of Tim and Sarah Fleener (couple in center) who met each other showing sheep at a national competition when they were teen-agers. Kyle's grandparents, Clyde (missing from the picture) and Dorothy Brubaker, left, raise Hampshires on their Newmanstown farm. His grandfather Ronald Fleener traveled 600 miles from his Indiana home to watch his grandson compete at the fair. Kyle's 5-year-old brother Kurt is eager to enter the show ring as soon as he turns eight.

Simple Recipe Rises To Top Of Lebanon Pie Contest

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Connie Knauss, Schaefferstown, knows if you can't get it right the first time, try again.

When she put the apple pie in the oven early on Monday morning, she realized that using an aluminum pie pan wouldn't make an award-winning crust for an entry she was preparing for the Lebanon Fair's Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest.

So she tried again, this time using a glass pie dish.

Using a simple recipe she garnered from a national magazine, Connie combined the basic ingredients as specified — brown sugar, butter, cream, pecans, and a winning touch — to capture the blue ribbon on Monday afternoon.

Connie said she has entered various contests at the fair in years past, but this was the first time she won the premier apple pie baking contest.

"I've tried half a dozen recipes on my family and there never was a unanimous vote," she said.

But the judges could agree.

And those who had a chance to sample the recipe after the award was presented believed the best way to eat the pie was prepared, warm. The ingredients included Granny Smith apples from a local farm market. She said that using the right amount of sugar is critical in making the pie taste just right. Also, the topping of pecans and brown sugar had special appeal for the judges and those who sampled the winning entry after the award presentation.

The Knauss family fared well at this year's contests. Daughter Emilee, 8, in the 3rd grade this year at Schaefferstown Elementary, won the brownie baking contest. Judges for the pie contest were Martha Gregory, Penn State extension; Ben Bow, fair chairman; and Lynn Miller, WLBR.

Following is the award-winning recipe:

CANDY APPLE PIE

6 cups thinly sliced peeled baking apples
2 tablespoons lime juice
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg

Pastry for double-crust pie (9 inches)

2 tablespoons butter
Topping:
¼ cup butter
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons heavy cream
¼ cup chopped pecans

In a large bowl, toss apples with lime juice. Combine dry ingredients; add to the apples and toss lightly. Place bottom pastry in a 9-inch pie plate; fill with apple mixture. Dot with butter. Cover with top crust. Flute edges high; cut steam vents. Bake at 400 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until golden brown and apples are tender. Meanwhile, for topping, melt butter in a small saucepan, stir in brown sugar and cream; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in pecans. Pour over top crust. Return to the oven for 3-4 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm.

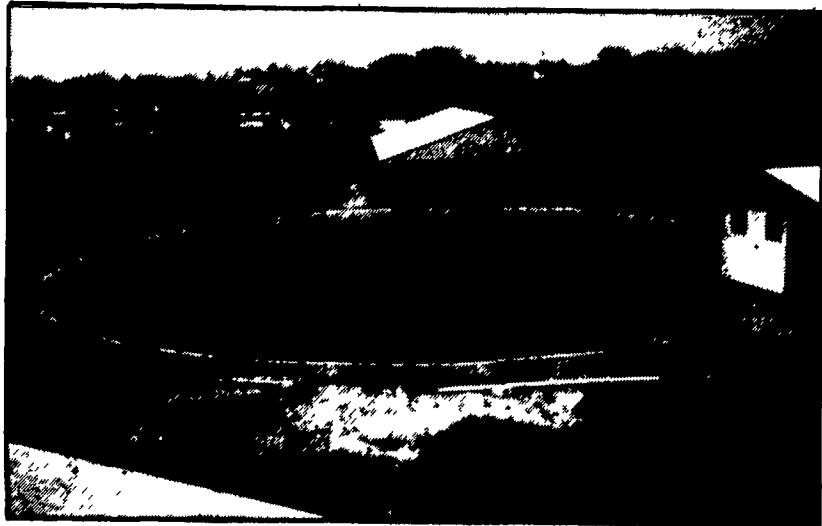

Lebanon Area Fair Queen Jennifer Bashore, former county dairy princess, is a 19-year-old student at Harrisburg Area Community College where she is studying early childhood education. She works part time on the family farm and teaches country line dancing.

Using a simple recipe from a national magazine, Connie combined the basic ingredients as specified — brown sugar, butter, cream, pecans, and a winning touch — to capture the blue ribbon on Monday afternoon.

The Fair is open to the public on Thursday from 5 - 9:30 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A parking donation of $3 is requested to help defray costs.

On Thursday evening, opening ceremonies and the banner parade begin at 6 p.m. followed by the Sheep Show at 6:30 p.m. From 6:30-9:30 you can learn country western dancing from an experienced instructor. There are pony rides for the kids, beginning at 7 p.m. as well as a horseless horse show.

Other highlights of that evening include the introduction of the Outstanding 4-H members and scholarship presentations. Indoor exhibits include crafts, foods, woodworking, clothing and a wide variety of 4-H and open class entries. The indoor exhibits are open until 9:30 p.m.

On Friday, rabbits, dairy cows, steers, Seeing Eye puppies, pigs and cats will be exhibited. In the evening, the band, "Latigo Smith" will perform from 7-10, with their great brand of foot-stomping music. In between these exhibitions, "Make It and Take It" project sessions will be held as well as a Fun Olympics for the children. From 4-8 p.m., as well as Saturday from 10-2, sewers can rummage through the Giant Fabric Sale, benefiting the 4-H Center. For those with hearty appetites, at 6 p.m. the World's Largest Sausage Patty will be cooked and sold by Hatfield Quality Meats, celebrating their 100th birthday this year. A rocket launch is also set for 6 p.m.

To close the Fair on Saturday, the 4-H Goat Show and the 4-H Horse Demonstrations and Drill Teams will be featured. The Deep Creek Cloggers will perform at 12 noon, followed by the Dog Obedience Show. The Celebrity Goat Milking Contest at 12:15 will feature local celebrities vying for this year's championship title. To round out the day, a Pet Show consisting of domestic animals will be featured. All area youth are invited to bring their pets and participate in this event. (no poultry or livestock allowed) All animals in the Pet Show must have current rabies and other vaccinations as required for their species. Registration begins at 2 and the show is called for 2:30. Don't forget to stop by the Fashion Revue at 3:30. The Fair concludes at 4:30 p.m.

For more information and a more detailed schedule call the 4-H Office at (610) 489-4315.

Auction To Benefit Clinic For Special Children

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.)— Donations of saleable items are again requested for the benefit auction for the Clinic for Special Children. The auction will be Sept. 16 at the Leola Produce Auction site on Brethren Church Road, Leola. All proceeds will go to the clinic, a non-profit organization with Dr. Holmes Morton as the attending physician.

Dr. Morton has taken a special interest in several hereditary diseases, and by testing all newborn babies of high-risk parentage, he has been able to prevent irreversible brain damage of many of these young children. The same tests that are at the clinic for $35.00 would cost $350.00 to $400.00 at major medical centers, making these tests too expensive for many parents. The costs of owning and operating this laboratory equipment are huge. But with the funds from this annual auction, the clinic has been able to offer this service to their clients at a price that is affordable to the average parent.

Donations can be made to the committee persons. If you have items that should be on the sale bill, you need to make contact by Wednesday, Aug. 10. For more information contact Leonard Hurst, Lititz. Phone: (717) 626-4863.

Farm Market Guide Available

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— A new guide to Pennsylvania farm markets is available.

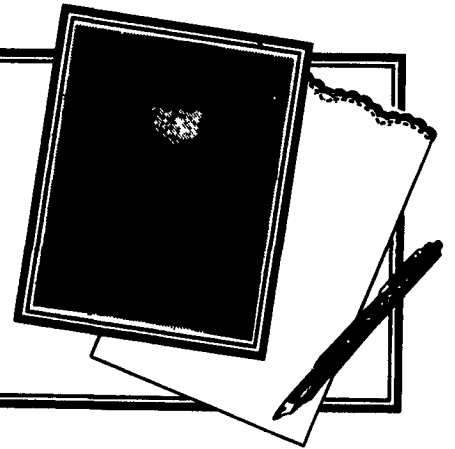

It lists 900 farm markets, roadside stands, and pick-your-own facilities located throughout the state.

The guides are available free from the Department of Agriculture's seven regional offices, the 11 Welcome Centers located throughout the state or by calling the Bureau of Market Development at (717) 787-6901.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

It is August already and people are realizing that summer is almost over and so they rush to get in a few more days of vacation. Our dead-end road is busy with the occupants of our many summer cottages as they travel between their homes and their spot on the Conestoga River. These cottages are all in the woods and so are supposedly cooler.

When my sisters and I got together recently, I heard a lot about their vacation plans. One is starting on a three-month trip to Alaska in a new motor home. It will surely be a trip to remember. Another sister and her husband are going to Spain and Portugal on a tour. Still another was lucky enough to win a cruise to the Bahamas. Allen and I are simply looking forward to a day trip to

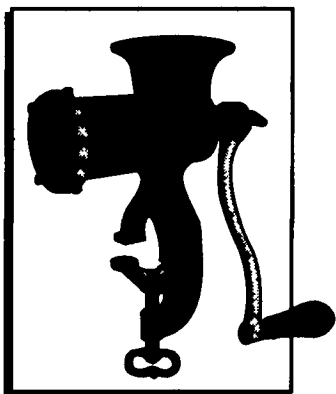

"Three Little Bakers Dinner Theater" this month.

When one retires it is nice to be able to travel if money is not a problem. However, not only money is necessary but also good health. I have been on trips where a member of our tour had to sent home because he could not keep up with the group.

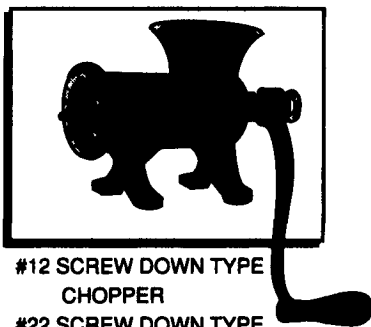

This summer Allen and I have been going to our camper in Snyder County every other week for a day or two. Fishing is always an important part of the trip. Sometimes Lake Walker is calm and other times it is quite rough as that is where we keep our boat. We haven't caught any fish but I always get a dozen or more small ones. Seeing a bear at the camper was a thrill for my husband. He is looking forward to hunting season.

ANSWER — Here's more about ridding an attic of bats. Penn State's College of Agriculture Sciences recently released a video called "Bat-Free Belfries: A Guide to Bat Proofing." The video helps explain the role of bats in the ecosystem and highlights their need for protection and management. The video gives detailed guidelines on dealing with a single bat or a colony of bats in a building, identifying bat entrances, sealing buildings to prevent bat access, and providing alternative roosts or bat boxes for displaced colonies to multiply. The video is available for $35 from Agricultural Information Services, the Penn State University, 119 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802. Phone (814) 865-6309. Make checks payable to Penn State.

Also, Mrs. Elmer Renoll wrote that they had a problem with bats several years ago. They called an exterminator who sprayed with a gas that kills a cat or dog. She was not pleased with the spray. The exterminator then put moth crystals in the attic for 11 months. The moth balls were effective. Mrs. Renoll suggests doing it yourself instead of using an exterminator.

ANSWER — A Pennsylvania reader wanted to know where to buy a good book on knitting and crocheting. Tammy Myer, 490 Crossroad School Rd., Carlisle, PA 17013-9435, writes that she has two excellent books. She used to be an expert at knitting and crocheting, but her hands no longer allow her to do it. She would like to sell her books, knitting needles, hooks, patterns, etc. Please contact her at the above address or call (717) 776-6409.

ANSWER — Eva Eby, Manheim, wanted to know how to get clematis vines to bloom. Thanks to Edith Moore, Pennington, N.J., who writes that she had a clematis that gave only a few blooms for three years. This year she put a couple of cups of packaged cow manure on the vines and added water. The manure has no odor. The clematis had 40 to 50 beautiful blooms on it this year.

The patented Dura-Drum cutterhead not only saves you money with inexpensive knife replacement, the fully enclosed drum won't fill up with silage - a problem that can rob you of horsepower and waste fuel.

You'll save plenty on maintenance, too. The unique Dura-Drum™ cutterhead features segmented knives instead of full-width knives. When a knife is damaged, you'll pay just $13.42* for a new one, compared to $78.87* for a full-width knife. Plus, segmented knives are easier to replace - simply loosen three bolts, switch knives, and retighten.

You can have top-quality forage without paying top-dollar. Just ask your John Deere dealer about a Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester today.

*Comparison based on manufacturer's suggested retail price (as of April 1, 1995) for rotating knives used on a John Deere 3970 and its closest major competitor knives for other competitors were more costly Long days in the field seem shorter with a fender-mount radio featuring AM/FM, cassette, and stereo sound. Comes with a sturdy bolt-on stand and weather-proof cover.

Just $152.45 (PMTRA3100)

*John Deere dealers are independent retailers who determine their own prices, so actual selling prices can vary from the prices shown. Prices good through August 31, 1995

CHORE-TIME...nobody knows more about feeding

Both Models C2 (above) and H2 (left) start chicks when lowered to floor, finish birds when raised up.

in broiler feeders

Feed broilers and pullets your way! As the world leader in poultry feeding systems, Chore-Time offers you the best choices in feeders. You will love what our newest feeders—the Model C2™ and Model H2™—do for you.

Features include (1) labor-saving Patented Feed Windows that open to let chicks eat from day one—without additional feed on paper or "lids", (2) feed-saving features like easy feed adjustment settings, and (3) cost-saving all-plastic designs with Chore-Time Warranty.

Pick a Chore-Time feeding system—including our rugged feed bins and Genuine Chore-Time FLEX-AUGER® Feed Delivery System, plus ventilation—and you know you've made the Right Choice—because it's from Chore-Time, the leader!

in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

CHORE-TIME CAGE SYSTEMS
Milford, Indiana & Decatur, Alabama

New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.

- Three models - Your choice of 540 or 1,000 rpm operation.
- Twin spinners - Rifle material into the blower fan at nearly 35 mph.
- Twin-sided fan disc - Paddles on both sides shoot the crop up the pipe in a nearly continuous flow.
- Split rim sheets - Feature a replaceable inner liner for longer life and lower maintenance costs.
- Many convenience features - Swing-away blower outlet, air vents, adjustable left tire, right tire guard, wide hopper, removable tunnel covers and dual water inlets.

COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS

Gehl mower conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features.

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- 9'3" cutting width.

Field Day Set

Road and Route 322.

Throughout the day, groups will be visiting with various speakers to discuss ag advancements. Among the topics will be the use of global positioning satellites for pinpoint accuracy with fertility, yields, and pest management. Residue tillage and forage harvesting techniques will be covered.

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.)—A 54-week trial comparing oyster shell and coarse particle limestone found birds on oyster shells ate less feed and demonstrated better feed cost per dozen eggs produced. The trial also found a numerical advantage in livability for the oyster shell-fed birds.

Mike Royal, commercial feed accounts manager for Southern States Cooperative, Richmond, Va., reported on the trial at a recent seminar for Pennsylvania egg producers.

His presentation was based on work conducted by Dr. Lance Minear, manager poultry research services, Cooperative Research Farm, Providence Forge, Va. The trial conducted with 3,200 DeKalb XL's examined the effect of calcium source and ratios of particle size on laying hen performance.

In his presentation, Royal reported an average of five more eggs per hen housed for a 2:1 ration (3/4 coarse particles to 1/4 fine), over a 1:1 ratio (equal amounts of coarse and fine grind).

Also appearing on the seminar program were Dr. Charles Pitts, Penn State Dept. of Entomology; Dr. Ted Sefton, technical poultry director, Alltech Biotechnology Center; and Gil Dedrick, management consultant of Global Poultry Marketing.

Alltech's Dr. Ted Sefton cited the advantages of biotechnology and noted that it offers a range of natural products and programs that don't require regulation.

For example, Alltech's De-Odorase to reduce ammonia levels utilizes glycocomponents of the Yucca plant. Another product, Sal-Zap, is a special blend of organic acid-based feed preservatives that can reduce or eliminate pathogenic bacteria such as Salmonella and E. coli.

Only recently, according to Dr. Sefton, has the feed industry begun to see the value of enzymes as biological catalysts, even though they have been in widespread use in the food industry for many years.

Gil Dedrick, of Global Poultry Marketing, discussing egg shell strength and heat stress, said high temperatures can cause a layer to go from a normal acid balance in her blood to alkaline in about two hours. She then enters a physiological state similar to when calcium is removed from the feed. Egg production and shell quality decline.

"The distinct advantage that oyster shells have over other calcium sources," Dedrick explained, "is that the hen will have a reserve of calcium in her gizzard when evening house temperatures drop and she returns to an acid balance. With this reserve, she will not have to wait for the next feeding to begin getting her calcium levels back to normal. And she won't have to mobilize her medullary bone for shell formation."

Layers Fed Oyster Shells Demonstrate Lower Feed Costs

Guide To Conservation Breeding Available

PITTSBORO, N.C. — The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy announces publication of "A Conservation Breeding Handbook" by D.P. Sponenberg and C.J. Christman. The Handbook describes livestock and poultry breeds as genetic resources and explains the importance of individual breeders in their conservation.

"A Conservation Breeding Handbook" was written primarily for people interested in rare breeds, but it addresses subjects of interest to all animal breeders — developing a philosophy; the concept and practice of selection; a comparison of conservation and improvement breeding; and the uses of breeding systems such as inbreeding, linebreeding, and crossbreeding. The book discusses the considerations necessary in starting a herd or flock, from choice of species and breed through purchase of animals and participation in breed associations, registries, and other networks.

The Handbook includes detailed breeding programs for genetic management of herds or flocks and rescue protocols for critically rare populations. The programs described are based in the science of genetics but include the practical management considerations which are essential to success.

Some experts claim that individual breeders cannot be trusted with the responsibility of genetic conservation. Quite the contrary is true. Individuals have always been stewards of rare breeds, and the involvement of many people is the only sure way to protect this wealth for the future.

PLANNING AHEAD FOR FALL GRAZING OPPORTUNITIES

Paul H. Craig
Agricultural Extension Agent
Dauphin County, PA

One characteristic found in successful farmers is the skill of advanced planning and then following through on that plan. Successful graziers definitely exhibit this skill — in fact, grazing probably involves greater levels of advanced planning than some other areas of agriculture.

Experienced graziers are observing their livestock and pastures on a daily basis; however, most are also thinking and planning for several weeks in the future. They realize that decisions made today can have a tremendous impact on their future grazing opportunities. Their goal is to maximize forage quality and utilization by planning for the union of animal needs with forage plant management.

Unfortunately for graziers, there is no simple textbook for success. That also holds true for any agricultural livelihood. Although there are many advocates of these types of guides, in truth, each enterprise has its own needs and situations that require flexibility.

Pasturing requires a lot of flexibility. The fact that the grazing environment is constantly changing because of early spring flush, moisture availability, summer heat and slump, or yearly weather swings forces the grazer to be very flexible and to plan ahead.

Planning helps the grazer to recognize potentials and limitations. A plan provides the opportunity to rethink the process and to allow for other considerations. By careful advance planning, you are better able to maximize the multiple opportunities available from each decision.

Advanced planning is a thought process. It cannot be bought in a guide or a book. Successful graziers have it and most are thinking of grazing plans for this fall and taking steps now to be ready to graze in October, November, and maybe into December.

Extending

The Grazing Season

Available from county extension offices is Agronomy Facts #41, "Strategies for Extending the Grazing Season." This fact sheet, written by Dr. Martin Hall and Dr. Jerry Jung, highlights strategies or plans that can be used to extend the grazing season and decrease the need for stored feeds. Two strategies are the basis for late-season grazing — first is stockpiling and second is the utilization of forage plants that continue to grow and develop under cooler conditions.

Stockpiling

Stockpiling is the practice of selecting fields in late summer and then managing these fields with the intent of grazing later in the season. A major factor in selection of fields to be stockpiled is growth characteristics of the grass species. Reed canarygrass is a species of cool season grass that is very sensitive to day length and night temperatures. As days get shorter in early October, the plant ceases to grow and rapidly loses forage quality.

Orchardgrass continues to develop in the fall but shading and leaf diseases quickly degrade lower plant leaves. Endophyte-free tall fescue, bromegrass, and ryegrass are forage grass species that have characteristics that favor fall growth and development. Of these three species, perhaps the best suited to stockpiling is tall fescue, due to the fact that tall fescue does not lose its leaves and can retain forage quality even under snow cover.

To stockpile tall fescue, animals should be removed from paddocks from mid to late August through mid-October. Fertilizing with 50 pounds per acre of nitrogen or even a complete fertilizer such as 50-50-50 per acre will provide the nutrients necessary to maximize growth and development during this time period. Begin strip grazing or use of small paddocks after frost.

Just as planning ahead is important now for fall grazing, stockpiling will require advanced consideration of grazing plans for next spring. Keep in mind that by accumulating vegetation in the fall for stockpiling, reduced tiller formation will result due to competition for light. This causes poor winter survival and slow recovery next spring on heavily grazed paddocks. Frequently, the grazer who has planned ahead will keep one or two paddocks in reserve for early spring grazing to stagger the spring flush. Paddocks grazed latest, before dormancy, will be slowest to recover in the spring.

Late Summer Establishment

Another opportunity for late season grazing is to establish annual forage crops in mid August/early September. These include small grains (oats, rye, barley, triticale or wheat) and brassica crops, such as turnips and rape.

Winter annual small grains can provide grazing in fall and spring if certain management practices are planned and followed. These include seeding three to four weeks earlier than for grain production, increasing the seeding rate to three bushels/acre and applying 40 pounds/acre of nitrogen at planting. Seeding should be planned early and then if drought conditions are present, establishment can be delayed until soil moisture assures germination. Moderate grazing in the fall should not reduce spring silage or grain yields. In spring when the plant's growing point emerges grazing should be stopped if silage or grain harvest is intended. This spring one grazer rotationally grazed rye nine times.

Spring oats can also be sown in August for fall grazing. Sown at 2½ to 3 bushels per acre and fertilized with 50 pounds of nitrogen, this high yielding forage is ready in 6 to 8 weeks. In addition, oats have the ability to withstand a heavy freeze without losing quality.

Most graziers of small grains will limit grazing by using a temporary fence and strip grazing to reduce trampling and dunging losses. Nutritionists recommend adding one ounce of magnesium oxide daily to lactating cows normal mineral supplement to reduce the risk of grass tetany and to avoid nitrate poisoning that may result from applying any nitrogen fertilizer well before the intended grazing period of small grains.

Turnips and rape can be successfully grazed in the fall when planted in late July to mid August. Maximum production is reached in 80 to 90 days. In Pennsylvania an average carrying capacity of a good brassica stand would be approximately 1,550 ewe grazing or 160 cow grazing days per acre. More complete information on using brassicas can be found in a second Agronomy Fact Sheet, #33, available from your local extension office.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

NO USED SILOS!
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PRE-OWNED SILOS!

The Best of the Best

The Wheeling 2 oz. Seal of Quality coating represents the best of the best in the Wheeling Corrugating line of premium galvanized roofing and siding. Every panel that carries the 2 ounce coating assures you are getting the toughest, the most durable, the most corrosion resistant galvanized sheet available in today's marketplace.

Genuine Old-Time Quality

Every Wheeling 2 oz. sheet is manufactured from heavy gauge steel topped with an extra thick zinc coating, and formed into profiles that contribute strength and good looks. Build with a Wheeling 2 oz. sheet and you'll be working with the kind of durability and dependability that's been a standard in the industry for almost 100 years.

The Proof is in the Process

The performance behind the Wheeling 2 oz. Seal of Quality is possible because of Wheeling's patented Cook-Norteman manufacturing process. This technology allows a more consistent quality product and a more uniform coating with unsurpassed zinc adhesion. The process takes more handling and more time, but the end result is a superior premium panel that has its own limited 20 year performance warranty.

Dimensions and Specifications

If your building plans call for roofing and siding materials with exceptional corrosion resistance, minimum upkeep and old time toughness, you'll want to check the specs of Wheeling 2 oz. Seal of Quality galvanized.

Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel

When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

• A STRONG PROFILE

High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.

• MADE TO LAST

To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.

• A GREAT LOOKING PANEL

You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.

• MORE QUALITY FEATURES

Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994

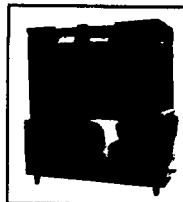

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk.

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Fall Conference To Study Nonpoint Source Pollution

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Department of Environmental Protection recently announced that it will sponsor a three-day conference in October to showcase public and private efforts in reducing nonpoint source pollution caused by urban runoff, mining, farming, on-lot sewage systems and timber harvesting.

"Local Solutions to Pennsylvania's Pollution," to be held October 9-11 at the Nittany Lion Inn.

State College, is geared for citizens, local government officials, educators, watershed organizations, land owners, land use planners, and professional consultants who want to improve water quality in Pennsylvania's waterways.

It is a two-part conference designed to 1) educate Pennsylvanians about the state's Chesapeake Bay Program and related local water quality initiatives, and 2) involve Pennsylvanians in discussing issues that are being addressed in a new statewide nonpoint source pollution strategy.

Day 1 of the conference will highlight Pennsylvania's Chesapeake Bay Program: its history, its milestones, and new steps that are being planned to meet state water quality goals for the year 2000.

That same day, learn about some do-it-yourself tools and techniques for grassroots nonpoint source pollution control. For instance, find out how to form your own watershed organization, how to work with your local government in guiding development with water quality in mind, and how to test the health of a local stream or river using volunteer monitors. Day 1 will also show you how to explore and analyze your own local watershed for its nonpoint source pollution potential.

Days 2 and 3 concentrate on Pennsylvania's statewide nonpoint source pollution control program. Local approaches to problems caused by on-lot sewage, urban runoff, mining, farming and timber harvesting will be featured. Roundtable discussion groups will help provide input to the DEP in developing the state's nonpoint source strategy.

There will be a reception on the evening of Day 1, October 9 for all attendees, followed by an optional dinner. Ann Pesiri Swanson, executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Commission, will be the dinner speaker.

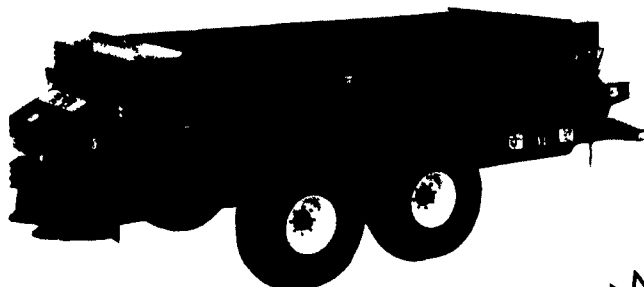

Options to attend Day 1 only, Days 2 and 3 only, or all three days are available. Registration fees will reflect these options.

The conference is sponsored by the Department of Environmental Protection, its Chesapeake Bay Education Office, and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (Nonpoint Source Program, Section 319 of the Clean Water Act).

For more information or to receive a conference brochure with a registration form, contact JACA Corporation, 550 Pinetown Road, Fort Washington, PA 19034, (215) 643-5466 and FAX (215) 643-2772.

Livestock Auction Aug. 12

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)—The 18th annual Wayne County Junior Livestock Auction will be Saturday, Aug. 12 at noon at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. All successful buyers will be treated to a beef barbecue immediately following the sale.

The sale will serve as a climax for more than 150 young people who have been raising livestock project animals in the 4-H program.

Members who are raising beef steers have had their animals on a grain feeding program since last October, while the sheep and hog members placed animals on finishing rations early this spring.

It is expected that 50 steers, 200 hogs and 69 lambs will be offered for sale. All will be of market weight with the steers weighing about 1,000 pounds liveweight, the hogs from 210 to 270 pounds or more, and the lambs at least 80 pounds to over 150 pounds.

Animals will be weighed Friday morning, the day prior to the sale, for the purpose of determining sale weight. They will receive no feed or water from Thursday midnight until after they are weighed.

The sale will be conducted as an auction, with the animals being sold to the highest bidder. Anyone who does not feel comfortable bidding in an auction can make arrangements to have a 4-H leader do the bidding and act as the buyer. Such persons should contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office to make the necessary arrangements and to secure information on prevailing market prices.

It is possible for two or more to share an animal(s). As animals are sold whole, previous arrangements must be made with other buyers. The extension office will try to match you up with another buyer if you have difficulty finding one.

ing one.

Buyers will receive duplicate ribbons based on judging conducted earlier in the week. Special banners will be presented to the buyers of the three grand champion and three reserve grand champion animals.

Arrangements for transporting and processing should be done before the sale. Call the extension office if you need help finding a processor.

The sale steering committee consists of Clyde Eltz, Ellis Dix, John Marshall, Robert Terrel, Robert Muller and Jim White. Dan Naylor and Wayne Weaver will be the auctioneers.

Lycoming County Youth

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming Co.)—The county youth dairy show was held July 18 at the fairgrounds. Creedin Corman, Carlisle was the type judge; Paul Moyer, Roaring Branch, was the fitting judge; and Cliff Levan, Milton, was the showing judge. A total of 94 head was shown in five breeds. The results in photo form were supplied by William Messersmith, Lycoming County extension director.

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.)—More than 75 farmers and agri-industry representatives attended a field day recently to examine no-till vegetable transplanting into cover crops here at Cedar Meadow Farm, operated by Steve and Cheri Groff.

At the field day, sponsored by the Regional Infrastructure for Sustainable Agriculture (RISA), the Soil and Water Conservation Society, and the county conservation district, those attending observed how to manage cover and fertility for no-till crops, observations on no-till transplanting vegetables, including tomatoes, and a discussion of the benefits of cover crops in vegetable rotations.

One test plot examined tomatoes and other vegetables no-tilled into hairy vetch. Also, corn was no-till planted in hairy vetch on 30- and 15-inch rows.

Steve Groff said those who attended "noticed good weed control in the vetch mulch."

"The plants look healthy in all the plots," he said.

Also, the field day demonstrated how broccoli is transplanted into wheat stubble. The planter is available from the Lancaster County Conservation District.

In addition to Groff, other speakers included Dr. Abdul-Baki, USDA-ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center; John Bert, Soil and Water Conservation Society; and other Rodale Institute and Penn State extension professionals.

One test plot examined fresh-market tomatoes and other vegetables no-tilled into hairy vetch.

Steve Groff spoke at a field day that examined no-tilling vegetables into wheat stubble at his farm in Holtwood.

About 75 turned out for the no-till vegetable transplanting into cover crops field day recently in Holtwood.

AG PROGRESS DAYS EXHIBITION AREA

Jason's 'Bubba' Walks His Way To A Beef Trophy

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.)—Competition may have been heating up, but the show ring on Tuesday afternoon provided a means for more than 140 to cool down and watch the annual Lebanon Fair Beef Show.

Twenty-two exhibitors paraded 30 animals in the show ring, despite high humidity and temperatures in the 90s.

At the show, Jason Shirk's "Bubba," a 1,185-pound Limousin cross from the light heavyweight division, won champion open and 4-H market beef.

Show judge Steve Upperman, who raises registered Angus cattle in Chambersburg, was impressed with the top animals, but liked the Limousin cross best for its frame size, weight, and overall finish.

Jason, 13, son of Tom and Dawn Arnold, Rexmont, said he was able to control his steer despite the high temperatures. One of the reasons for the big finish is because Jason walks the calf daily, for a half hour and up to one-eighth of a mile.

Jason considers the Lebanon Fair his premier show event. He has won championship twice at the fair. Jason is in the 7th grade at Cedar Crest.

Nathaniel Artz paraded his Red Angus/Charolais, "George," to reserve overall champion. The 1,239-pound animal is home-bred for Nathaniel, 12, son of Scott and Linda Artz, Lebanon.

Nathaniel is in the 6th grade at Cedar Crest. This is his first Lebanon Fair championship.

Following is a list of show placings.

Ag Department Awards Youth Grants

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Recently, Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that several county 4-H cabinets were awarded grants through the department's Agriculture and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program.

• The Montgomery County 4-H Cabinet of Collegeville was awarded a $2,500 direct grant. The grant will be used to conduct three agricultural science day camps for 120 youth, ages 10-14. The objective of the program is to increase participants' knowledge of the basics of animal management, how food and fiber is produced, and potential careers in agricultural and environmental sciences.

• The Westmoreland County 4-H Development Fund of Greensburg has been awarded a $2,500 direct grant. The grant will be used to conduct a three-day food science learning lab for 200 youth ages 8-11. The objective of the project is to increase participants' knowledge of food production, processing, and safety. Participants will learn about food production, the relationship of the food supply to the environment, the importance of research, and careers in agriculture.

• The Nicholas Wolff Foundation, Inc. of Millville, Columbia County, has been awarded a $15,000 matching grant through the department's Agriculture and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program. The grant will be used to purchase equipment for a new medical care facility at Camp Victory, the foundation's summer camp facility serving chronically ill and physically disabled children. Camp Victory is dedicated to improving the health and quality of life for children from rural Pennsylvania.

The grant program is designed to fund local efforts to increase the awareness of ag and rural issues. Youth organizations can apply for direct grants of up to $2,500 and matching grants of up to $15,000.

Farmers Need Relief From 'Regulatory Overkill'

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.)—Pennsylvania farmers are disappointed with the U.S. Senate's recent failure to act on regulatory reform, according to the head of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. Three attempts to end floor debate on S. 343, a regulatory reform bill supported by Farm Bureau, were defeated in the Senate recently.

Keith Eckel, president of the statewide, voluntary farm organization, said, "Compliance with federal regulations costs American farmers $18 billion to $20 billion annually. That's a cost on top of production expenses that farmers must pay for before they can begin to make a profit. It's a cost that's way out of line for the results produced. We need relief from regulatory overkill."

While expressing disappointment over the Senate setback, Eckel praised Pennsylvania's Senator Rick Santorum (R-Pa) for his leadership in the push for regulatory reform. Sen. Santorum is a co-sponsor of S. 343. Eckel also pointed out that both Pennsylvania's Senators Santorum and Arlen Specter (R-Pa) were among the 58 senators voting to end debate on the legislation during the third and most recent cloture vote.

"We appreciate our senator's support and hope they will continue to vote for regulatory reform in the future," Eckel said. "It's too important an issue—not only for America's farmers but for all Americans—to let die in the Senate. We urge Senate Majority Leader Dole to continue to seek passage of the bill."

S. 343 contains several provisions supported by Farm Bureau. It would require an assessment, using sound science, of risks being regulated against and an analysis of the costs versus the benefits of regulations. It would also replace the outmoded zero-tolerance Delancy Clause with a negligible risk standard for food pesticide residues. If left unchanged, this 37-year-old federal statute could ban crop protection products in virtually every state.

HOW A PERFECT RATION GETS THAT WAY.

High-capacity grinding, streamlined feed path and thorough mixing make the most of your feed. When you're faced with getting big chores done fast and done right, you'll want a Case IH grinder-mixer on the job, built to be "bottleneck-free," so you can stay on schedule. While some machines with more hammers tend to cause a higher amount of fines, the hardened hammers in the 1350 are spaced properly to provide optimum grinding with low fines. And all hammers can be turned end-for-end and reversed, letting you use all four corners. Built-in productivity like that puts more profit in your pocket. Material flows smoothly through Case IH grinder-mixers because bottlenecks have been eliminated. You'll notice, especially with hay and other bulky materials, that the grinding action is fast and efficient. The grinding screens are positioned so the entire surface area is utilized. The screens are available in 12 different hole sizes; recommended hole sizes for both the 1250 and 1350 are 3/4 in. and 5/16 in. Screen changes take less than a minute, and a handy storage rack keeps extra screens within easy access. Even the best materials can create an inferior ration if not mixed properly. That's why the 1350 is designed to thoroughly blend your feed for optimum palatability and nutrition. As ground material comes out of the top of the mixing auger, a flinger throws the material out against the walls of the tank. Built tough to withstand overfilling conditions, this flinger ensures thorough circulation and mixing of material throughout the tank. Meanwhile, an efficient air system keeps grinding dust to a minimum. While this helps to retain valuable feedstuffs, it also creates a better working environment for the operator.

CLAAS[®] Rollant round balers give you what you want

The Rollant 66 makes fast work of 4'x5' bales. Its unique two-stage pick-up and close tines produce a clean, efficient harvest in less time. Rollatex netting wraps a bale in 10 seconds or less, and double-twine wraps it up in just 20.

The Rollant 46 introduced CLAAS's innovative fixed bale chamber to the marketplace. This versatile baler handles all farm operations from dry hay to silage. Nobody produces a better 4'x4' bale.

The Rollant 42 was designed for family livestock operations. This economical investment produces weather-tight 4'x4' bales for the highest nutrient content possible.

CLAAS bales mean nutrient-filled edible hay, low spoilage, and high crude protein retention.

Each Rollant offers the innovative chamber, low-profile pick-up, and world class dependability. And they all share CLAAS's international reputation for low maintenance, durability and long-life.

Call now to see how you can improve the round figures on your bottom line.

Crop flow is the secret

Four intake and precompression rollers pack the crop together densely. Hydraulic dampers smooth out any bumps in crop flow, if irregularities should occur! The rollers are driven positively by gearboxes and drive shafts. The lower front roller houses the latest generation CLAAS "PROTECTOR" metal detector. The 17" distance between it and the drum is greater than on any other forager, thus improving the chances of stopping metal from getting into the cylinder, and giving a much faster feed-roller speed.

Easy, comfortable chop length adjustment. The gearbox provides for 6 different chop lengths: 5/32, 13/64, 1/4, 9/32, in corn, plus two extra lengths in grass. When so equipped, the changeover between two lengths in each range can be done at the touch of a button. The header is also switched over from slow or fast at the same time.

PURINA PROFILE

BEDFORD FARM BUREAU COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

The Bedford Farm Bureau Cooperative Association is one of only a few true remaining local cooperatives owned and operated by the farmers who use the services. With locations in Bedford, Everett, New Enterprise and Warriors Mark, this major Purina dealership serves farmers and rural customers in Bedford, Blair, Huntingdon, and Cambria counties, and has some business over the Maryland line.

The business started 52 years ago. With 650 to 700 members, the cooperative has 12 board members who are farmers. William Popovich, Jr. is the general manager. The business serves mostly dairy farmers in an area where the dairy cow population is expanding. Dairy farmers who are in population pressure areas such as in Hagerstown, Md. and southeast Pennsylvania have the opportunity to sell out and move to this area, buying farms that have not had dairy cows for 20 years.

As for the Purina products, Popovich says they are the standard of the industry. "Everywhere I went, other feed companies claimed to be just as good as Purina," Popovich said. "So when I became general manager here in 1989, the first thing I did was change to Purina. They have the goal within the company to be the leader in the feed industry and they do whatever is necessary in technological resources and patented processes to maintain that leadership. Others can't copy Purina even if they would like to. Purina really has a policy of service."

The Bedford Farm Bureau Cooperative Association started serving farmers 52 years ago. Additional centers have been added more recently in Everett, New Enterprise, and Warriors Mark.

"I was nervous for a while that everything about the dairy business was going to get real big. But now I'm not so sure. I'm seeing more about how many people per cow it takes. And I still think there is an opportunity to be in the dairy business much like we are today. By cutting expenses and working together with neighbors in sharing equipment, I think the industry can continue with 50 or 60 cow herds."

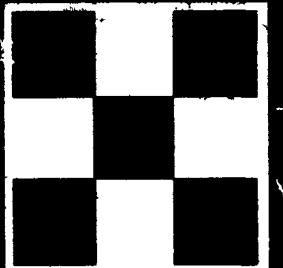

At Bedford Farm Bureau, they still do some things the old-fashioned way. Farmers with just a few cows or other livestock can be supplied from this cooperative. But if bulk feed is needed in large quantities, this can be supplied, too.

Three consultants are on the road helping to formulate feeds and to ask for their business. At the end of the year, the board of directors look at the business and declare a patronage refund if possible.

"We are still competitive on price, and when you think you may get a little money back it provides an incentive to buy feed and other products here," Popovich said. "You can't count on a refund, but it has come back 98 percent of the time."

This is an old established cooperative organization with a base of customers that have been with them for many years. They have products that are comparable or better than anyone else. Purina products are second to none, and if you give Bedford Farm Bureau the opportunity and enough time, they believe they can help you attain a more profitable dairy herd.

William Popovich, Jr. is the general manager of the cooperative.
